Great students' tip

Exam tip: Answering multiple-choice questions

If you aren't 100% sure of the correct answer, eliminate first the answers that are clearly wrong. Then read again the part of the text that the question refers to and choose the correct answer.

2 01 Read the article and choose the best answers.

- 1 What does the author say about arguments in families?
  - a Teenagers almost never agree with their parents.
  - b It's very common for teenagers to argue with their mum and dad.
  - c Teenagers often argue with their brothers and sisters.
- 2 Most arguments between teenagers and parents occur because ...
  - a teenagers don't listen.
  - b parents don't explain their opinion well.
  - c teenagers don't get what they want.
- 3 What is it important to do when you ask your parents for something?
  - a Give the reasons for your request.
  - b Ask politely.
  - c Compare your situation to your friends'.
- 4 In general, what has a positive effect on your parents' reply?
  - a You give them examples of how your behaviour is positive.
  - b You offer to help them.
  - c You say that you deserve a positive reply.
- 5 What isn't a 'magic formula'?
  - a Listening to your parents' reasons.
  - b Asking nicely.
  - c Following the author's advice.

Mum, it's not fair!

'I'm a teenager and I never have arguments with my parents.' Does this describe you? If it does, you're one in a million! But for most teenagers, disagreements with parents are an inevitable part of family life. So, what can we do about them?

When you have rows with your parents, it's often because you want something but they aren't willing to give it to you: getting permission to sleep over at a friend's house, coming back home later than you normally do, etc. The question is: what do you do when they say 'no'?

First of all, don't get angry! Your parents aren't saying no to make you feel bad. They have their reasons. So, listen to them. If they don't give you an explanation, ask them – politely! It's important to understand why they're saying 'no'.

Secondly, you need to explain why you're asking for something. Don't just say, for example: 'Can I have a new smartphone?' Give a reason why: 'All my friends have great phones and I feel bad because mine is really terrible. Also, I can't use a lot of apps because my phone hasn't got enough memory.' When your parents understand why you're asking for something, the possibility of getting a positive reply from them goes up!

Thirdly, you need to show that you deserve what you're asking for. Imagine that you ask for a new phone, but you're spending all your pocket money on clothes. It's not hard to predict your parents' reply! But the situation is completely different if you say: 'I'm saving all my money for a smartphone but they're very expensive. Can you please give me some pocket money if I help more in the house?'

So, listen to your parents' reasons, explain why you want something, and show why you deserve it. This isn't a magic formula, but it helps. Good luck!

3 Match the underlined words in the article to the meanings.

- 1 behave well, so it's fair that a good thing happens to you .....
- 2 spend the night at a friend's house .....
- 3 money you get from your parents .....
- 4 very bad arguments .....
- 5 not having the same opinion .....

Women in society

We can say with (a)..... that the position of women in the workplace in the UK is better than before. In the past, some married women needed their husbands' (b)..... to work. The (c)..... of women is different nowadays; in 2017, for example, 78% of women of working age were employed.

However, this (d)..... for women in the world of employment isn't complete. According to a 2019 report, there is a (e)..... between men and women's salaries in the UK (women earn about 8.9% less than men). One way to combat gender (f)..... at work is to show transparency over pay and so, in the UK, companies with over 250 workers now publish (g)..... that shows how big the gender pay gap* is. Making sure all employees have equal opportunities is part of the (h)..... to this problem.

*gender pay gap: the difference between salaries of men and women.

Asking for personal information

1 ☆ Which of these questions do you ask a person your age when you meet him/her for the first time?

- 1 What's your name?
- 2 Do you live near here?
- 3 Are your parents divorced?
- 4 Do you like sport?
- 5 Have your parents got a lot of money?
- 6 How old are you?

2  03 ☆ Listen to the dialogue between Sam and Laura. Decide if the sentences are True (T) or False (F).

- 1 Laura has got a brother and a sister. T / F
- 2 Sam has got one child. T / F
- 3 Sam plays football very often. T / F
- 4 Laura doesn't like football. T / F
- 5 Laura is bad at tennis. T / F
- 6 They both like maths. T / F

3 ☆☆☆ Put the words in order to make questions from the dialogue. Add question marks.

- 4 Has your dad got any brothers or sisters? .....
- 5 What do you usually do in the evenings? .....

5 ☆☆☆ Complete the pronunciation rule for questions.

In questions where the answer is Yes or No (e.g. Do you like basketball?), the intonation goes (a) up/down at the end.

In questions where the answer is not Yes or No (e.g. How often do you play basketball?), the intonation goes (b) up/down at the end.

Great students' tip

Exam tip: Answering questions about personal information

When the examiner asks for personal information, don't just answer Yes or No and don't give a very short answer. The examiner wants to see how well you speak English. A short answer doesn't show this! Also, the examiner wants to see that you can take an active role in the conversation.

6 ☆☆☆ Write the answers to these questions. Give long answers. Practise saying them. If possible, record yourself.

- 1 Have you got any sisters?
.....
- 2 How many brothers have you got?

Useful words and expressions in informal emails (1)

- To begin an informal email, we usually use Dear (Maya) or just Hi.
- We use contractions like I'm or I've.
- We can use emoticons like ;-) or ☹.
- We can use the word anyway to change the subject.
- To reply to an informal email we can use: Thanks for your email, It was great to hear from you, How are things?, I hope you're well.
- To finish an informal email letter we can use: That's all for now, Bye for now!, Write back soon, All the best or Best wishes.

Great students' tip

Reading and using a dictionary

Dictionaries are very useful but don't depend on a dictionary too much. For example, when you are reading, don't use the dictionary to look up every word you don't know. You don't need to understand every word in a text to do the exercises or to understand the general meaning. Only look up words which seem important or appear frequently.

1 Read the article quickly. Choose the best title (1-4).

- 1 How to become a detective
- 2 Lie detectors: a detective's best friend?
- 3 Truth and lies
- 4 How to question suspects

Imagine you're working as a detective. You're investigating a case and questioning a witness. Or perhaps you have a suspect in front of you and you're trying to work out if you want to charge them. In both cases, you have to answer a fundamental question: are they telling the truth? What clues can you look for to help you?

One thing you can do is to carefully analyse each person's motives. Let's say that you're interviewing someone who was at a crime scene by chance. This person hasn't really got any reasons to give you a false account of what happened. They haven't got a motive. However, imagine that you're questioning the wife of someone who's suspected of burglary. She tells you that her husband was with her at the time of the crime. Do you believe her? It's possible that she's telling the truth. But what if she's protecting her husband? Maybe he is guilty!

Maybe there's a scientific way to discover if a person is lying: the polygraph, or lie detector. This is a machine that analyses the physical reactions in a person's body while they're answering a series of questions; for example, changes in their pulse and respiration. The idea is, big changes in the body show stress, which is a sign that someone is not telling the truth. However, do polygraph tests work? There's a lot of disagreement about this. The American Polygraph Association says that they work in 90% of cases. However, in the opinion of many psychologists, although polygraph tests are good at detecting liars, they also produce a lot of 'false positives'* for honest people! Perhaps this explains why they don't accept polygraph tests as evidence in courts in most countries.

So, how does a detective know if someone is lying when the evidence isn't clear? In the end, they need to use something that isn't scientific at all: their intuition. It's not perfect, but sometimes it's all they've got!

*false positive:
an incorrect prediction

2 05 Read the article and answer the questions.

- 1 What important decision does a detective have to take?
.....
- 2 When you're interviewing a witness, can you believe what they say? Why/Why not?
.....
.....
- 3 When you're interviewing the relative of a suspect, can you believe what they say? Why/Why not?
.....
.....
- 4 What evidence does a polygraph collect?
.....
.....
- 5 Can we depend on the results of polygraph tests? Why/Why not?
.....
.....
- 6 What is the author's conclusion?
.....

3 Match the underlined words in the article to the meanings.

- 1 not innocent .....
- 2 reasons to do something .....
- 3 the place where a judge decides if someone is innocent .....
- 4 description .....
- 5 signs / indications .....

Critical thinkers

4 Tick (✓) the ideas that the text expresses or suggests.

- 1 Guilty suspects always lie.
- 2 If a polygraph test says that someone is telling the truth, it's probably correct.
- 3 Witnesses who are members of the suspect's family often lie.
- 4 It's a pity that we can't depend on the results of polygraph tests.
- 5 Detectives have a hard job.

Grammar challenge ☆☆☆

6 Find and correct eight mistakes in the text.

Last night we used to watch a film in the living room when suddenly we heard a sound. At first we were thinking that it was coming from the TV, but then we realised it was in the kitchen. My dad thought it used to be a burglar, so he went into the kitchen to find out. He opened the door and something flew out really fast! Then we hear another sound. We went back to the living room. The lamp was on the floor and in the corner we were seeing a parrot. It was my neighbour's parrot! It was knocking things onto the floor while it's flying through our house. We rang the neighbour and he took his parrot back. I was thinking parrots were boring pets, but I was totally wrong about that!

The big black cat Posted June 15, by Aidan

This happened two years ago, one day while I was walking home from school. It was a nice afternoon so I decided to go through the park.

I was walking along a path when, suddenly I heard a strange noise. I looked but at first I couldn't see anything. Then I saw it! It was a huge black cat, that looked like a panther. It was behind some trees and it was watching me! I felt so terrified that I couldn't move. I don't know how long it was there. Perhaps it was only five seconds but it seemed like five hours! In the end, it ran away. Later, when I got home I told my family about it but they said that it was all my imagination. The next day I checked online to see if there was any news about an escaped animal from the zoo, but I couldn't find anything. And today, I still can't explain what happened!

Use the past continuous to describe what was happening.

Use words and expressions of sequence / time.

Use adjectives to describe how people feel.

Use the past simple to describe individual actions.

1 ☆ Read the blog post and put the events (a–e) in the correct order (1–5).

AROUND 18 LANGUAGES HAVE ONLY ONE REMAINING SPEAKER

SOS: Languages are dying!

A You probably know that, every year, some plant and animal species disappear forever. (1) ..... Experts think that 40% of the languages that exist at the moment are in danger of disappearing. And they estimate that one language disappears every two weeks! The cause of this is simple: parents in some communities don't speak their mother tongue to their children. As a result, they never pick it up. This is happening all over the world. (2) ..... In Australia, Tjupany is a language that has only ten native speakers.

B Some people think all this doesn't matter. The world changes, they say. Before, people used to travel by horse and send telegrams for urgent messages. (3) ..... No one wants to go back to a time when these things didn't exist. The same is true for some languages, they say. (4) ..... But why try to keep them alive now when very few people use them?

C These are good questions, but there's a good answer to them. When we lose a language completely, we lose our ability to understand whole communities and cultures that helped to build the world before us. (5) ..... The question is: what can we do to preserve all of these endangered languages? Now, there's an organisation that's dedicated to doing precisely this: The Endangered Language Project (the ELP).

D The ELP, which started in 2012, is a relatively new project. (6) ..... Its aim is simple but ambitious: to collect examples of languages that are in danger – both text examples and audio or video. Audio and video are very important because many of these languages don't have a written form. (7) ..... What's more, people who want to learn, practise or research them can use the website as a unique self-study library. It's an unusual and wonderful idea!

2 10 Read the article again. Put the sentences into the correct places in the text (1-7). There is one extra sentence that you do not need.

- a In this way, the organisation can preserve these languages online.
- b In short, we lose part of our history.
- c But why are plants and animals disappearing?
- d Now they go by car, train or plane and send emails or instant messages.
- e However, did you know that the same thing is happening with languages, too?
- f Google, the technology company, created it.
- g These languages were useful when whole communities used to speak them.
- h For example, in Italy, only about 2,000 people still speak a language called Cimbrian.

3 Match the underlined words in the article to the meanings.

- 1 learning without a teacher .....
- 2 someone who speaks a particular language as their first language .....
- 3 first language .....
- 4 investigate / study .....
- 5 learn a language without formal study .....

4 Complete the sentences with the correct form of the words in 3.

- 1 Approximately 15% of the world population are ..... of Mandarin.
- 2 Alice's children went to primary school in Germany, so they ..... German without any problem.
- 3 Learning a language by ..... demands a lot of effort.
- 4 A linguist ..... the structure and use of language.

An article 1

Three good reasons for learning a foreign language

Start with an introduction.

Use expressions to sequence your points.

Present different information or points in different paragraphs.

End with a conclusion.

A I'm learning Japanese at evening classes at the moment. It's not easy but I'm really enjoying it. I'm not fluent yet but I hope to be one day! I think there are three main reasons for learning foreign languages in general, and Japanese in particular.

B First of all, learning a foreign language is fun. The pronunciation is different, for a start. In Japanese, there are a lot of sounds that don't exist at all in English. For example, there's a sound which is between r and l in English. Foreign languages contain different ideas about language, too. For instance, in Japanese writing, there aren't individual letters. There are some symbols that represent complete words and other symbols that represent syllables. That's really interesting!

C Secondly, knowing a foreign language opens a completely new world and culture. When you understand Japanese, you can read books in Japanese and watch films in Japanese. You can even sing songs in Japanese!

D Finally, learning a foreign language is about communication and understanding. When you communicate with people from different cultures, you realise that we are all basically the same. All of us have the same hopes, fears and needs.

E In conclusion, there are lots of good reasons for learning a foreign language. If you don't speak one already, why not try it? It's a lot of fun!

1 ☆ Read the article and tick (✓) the reasons for learning a foreign language that it mentions.

- 1 It's interesting to learn a foreign language.
- 2 It doesn't take long to learn the pronunciation.
- 3 Learning a foreign language is culturally interesting.
- 4 You can learn to sing songs in another language.
- 5 You understand that all cultures are very similar.
- 6 You realise that people around the world aren't so different.

2 ☆☆ Which paragraph (A–E) is about each idea (1–5)?

- 1 We are all part of the same global family.
- 2 In Japanese, some symbols stand for complete words and others for syllables.
- 3 It's never too late to learn a foreign language.
- 4 Learning a language helps you explore many elements of a different culture.
- 5 It's a difficult language but I like learning it.

3 ☆☆ Look at the article and answer the questions.

- 1 What four expressions to sequence ideas does the writer use?
  - a .....
  - b .....
  - c .....
  - d .....
- 2 What tense does the writer use most of the time? .....
- 3 What does this tense describe?
  - a things that happened in the past
  - b things that are happening now
  - c things that are true in general

- 4 Drinking milk every day helps you to have healthy .....
- 5 ..... is a sensation you feel when you are very tired and haven't eaten for a long time.

A In the far north of Thailand there's a teenage football team called the Wild Boars. On the 23rd of June 2018, they had a training session with their assistant coach. Around 7 pm the head coach checked his phone. He had lots of missed calls from the boys' parents. The messages all said the same thing: 'Where are the boys? They haven't come home!' Worried, the coach called the assistant coach and the boys. No one answered! Finally, he spoke to one of the boys. 'I went home after training but the others went to explore a cave near the football field,' explained the boy. The coach now suspected that something was seriously wrong and rushed to the football field. When he arrived, he didn't find the boys there but he saw their bikes at the entrance of a cave nearby. He also saw water coming out of the cave! He decided to call the police.

B Gradually, the situation became clear. After the boys went into the cave, it started to rain hard. Now they were trapped inside – perhaps alive, perhaps ... drowned. Two days later, divers began the search for the boys but they couldn't find them. People were beginning to fear the worst. The Thai government asked experts from other countries to help. A week later, the 'impossible' happened: two British divers found the group alive. They posted a video online. In the video, the boys looked a bit confused, they weren't sure what day it was. The following day, three more divers arrived, including a doctor. The doctor confirmed that none of the boys were in a serious condition. They didn't have any broken bones, but they were weak because they had little food to eat.

C After the good news came some very bad news. The level of oxygen in the cave was getting dangerously low. Also, they were expecting heavy rain very soon. This could completely fill the cave with water! In an emergency operation, a team of divers took the boys out over two days. They gave each boy a diving suit with oxygen. As the world watched, all 12 boys and their assistant coach came safely out of the cave.

What a champion!

Lewis Hamilton has been a Formula 1 driver for the age of 22. He wins the Formula 1 Drivers Championship six times. Who knows how many times he can win it? His career certainly didn't finish!

Although he is British, Hamilton lives in Monte Carlo since 2010. He didn't have many problems with injuries in his career, but in 2016 he has driven most of the year with both feet injured! In recent years, Hamilton becomes worried about environmental problems and, for this reason, he has decided to stop eating meat.

Grammar: Use and form

When we study tenses, we need to think about:

- how we form the tense
- when we use the tense

When we study the past simple and present perfect, it isn't enough to study just how we form them.

We need to understand when we use each tense (the past simple describes finished actions or situations in the past; the present perfect describes an event or experience in the past, without saying the exact time when it happened).

Present perfect and past simple

3 ☆☆ Complete the sentences with the past simple or present perfect form of the verbs.

- Manchester City ..... (win) the Premier League in 2019. They ..... (win) the Premier League many times.
- My friend ..... (go) to the US last summer.
- ..... (you/eat) Mexican food before?
- I ..... (lend) you some money last week!
- There ..... (be) a lot of muggings in this area recently.
- Peter ..... (never/have) the flu!

4 ☆☆☆ Complete the email with the past simple or present perfect form of the verbs.

Describing photos

- 1 17 ☆ Listen to a boy describing the photo. Put the words (a–j) in the order that you hear them (1–10).

- |               |                          |           |                          |

| a hand        | <input type="checkbox"/> | f plant   | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| b temperature | <input type="checkbox"/> | g pyjamas | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| c soup        | <input type="checkbox"/> | h phone   | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| d forehead    | <input type="checkbox"/> | i hair    | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| e daughter    | <input type="checkbox"/> | j legs    | <input type="checkbox"/> |

- 2 18 ☆☆ Complete the boy's description with the correct words. Then listen and check.

In this photo I can (a) see/look a woman and a girl in the (b) background/foreground. It's probably a mother and daughter. They are at home. The girl is lying on a sofa and she's got a blanket on her legs. She (c) sees/looks ill.

The mother is looking at something in her hand. I'm not (d) sure/know but maybe she's checking her phone. In the background, there's a big plant on the (e) right/left and a window on the (f) right/left.

Pronunciation

- 3 19 ☆☆ Underline the stressed syllables. Listen and check. Then repeat for practice.

- 1 In this photo, I can see a nurse.
- 2 This is a picture of a boy.
- 3 In the foreground ...
- 4 In the background ...
- 5 On the left ...
- 6 On the right ...
- 7 I'm not sure but ...
- 8 He looks ill.

Great students' tip

Speaking: Words that you don't know

When you're describing a photo, you won't always know the exact word for everything in it. When this happens, don't panic! You can describe what it looks like, e.g. a small black object. You can also say what we use it for, e.g. It's something to check a person's temperature.

- 4 ☆☆☆ Follow the steps below to describe this photo.

- 1 Use these questions to make notes.
Who/What can you see in the foreground on the left and the right?

.....
.....

Where are they (probably/possibly)?

.....
.....

How can you describe what the person on the left is doing?

.....
.....
.....

Does the girl look ill? What is she doing?

.....
.....

What are the two people wearing?

.....
.....
.....

What can you see in the background?

.....
.....
.....

- 2 Use your notes and the expressions in 2 and 3 to help you prepare your description.
- 3 Practise describing the photo and, if possible, record yourself. Remember the tip when there is a word you don't know and pay special attention to word stress.
- 4 Listen to the recording. What was good? What could you improve?

An informal email 2

1 ☆ Read Bethany's email with Sarah's comments (1-5). Then read Sarah's reply. Which of the comments does Sarah not include in her reply?

1 Say you're sorry.

2 Say you can.

3 Say you can.

4 No problem!

5 I'm fine!

From: Bethany

Hi Sarah,

How are you? I'm not feeling very well. I'm afraid. I think I've got a cold!

So, I can't go to Chloe's party tonight. Could you please tell her why I can't come?

I've bought her a present. Could you come round to my house, pick it up, and give it to Chloe at the party? It's only a necklace, so it isn't very big!

There's one more thing: I'm pretty sure I can't play football tomorrow. So please say sorry to the team for me!

Thanks very much, Sarah!

See you later this afternoon, I hope!

Bethany

PS I hope you are feeling OK. A lot of people I know have got a cold at the moment!

From: Sarah

Hi Bethany,

I'm really sorry to hear that you're ill. I hope it doesn't last very long! It's a pity that you can't come to the party tonight. Of course I can tell Chloe why you aren't there. I can come to your house at about 7 o'clock to pick up the necklace. I hope that time's OK with you. And don't worry that you can't play football tomorrow! I can tell everyone that you're ill!

Take care – and see you later!

Sarah

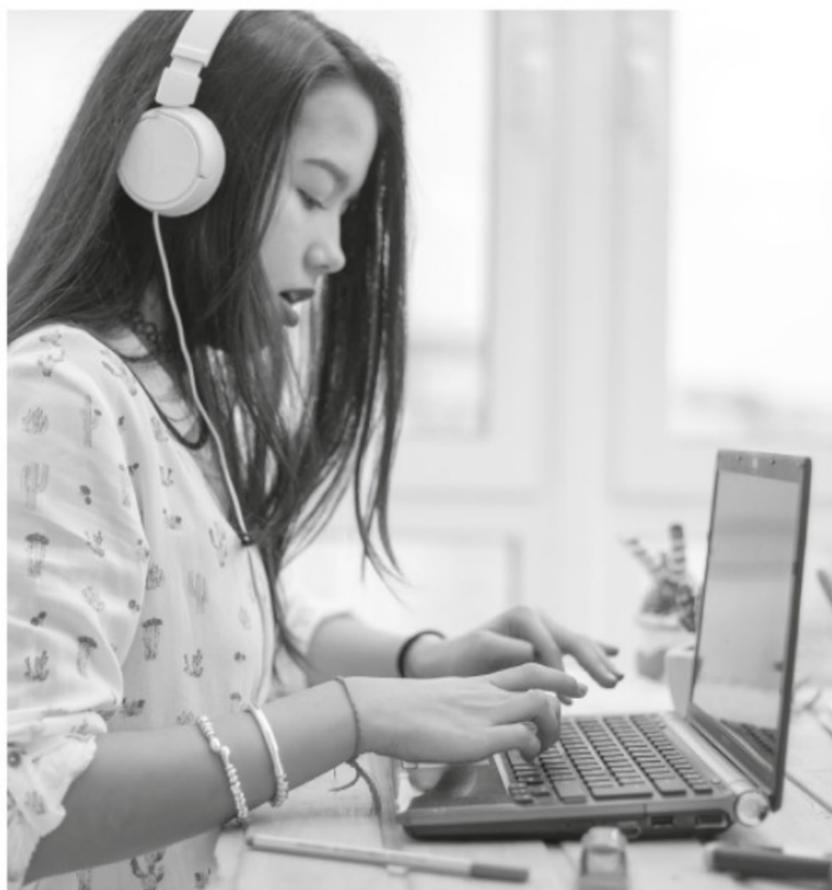

PS BTW, I think a necklace is a great present! I can't wait to see it!

4 ☆ Choose the correct alternative.

- 1 I'm really sorry to hear/know that you've been ill.
- 2 I'm content/glad to hear that I passed the exam.
- 3 Get fine/well soon!
- 4 I'll come to your house ASAP/etc.
- 5 IMO/ASAP the exam was quite hard.

5 ☆☆ Read the email. Identify the four parts that you need to comment on in your reply.

From: Sofia

Hi,

I'm writing to ask you a favour! My family's going to France for the weekend and we don't know anyone who can take care of our cat for two or three days. So ... do you think you could have him at your house? He's a very good cat! His name's Bruno! If it's OK, when can I bring him to your house?

Can you reply asap because it's Wednesday today and we really need to find somewhere for Bruno before Friday!

Thanks very much!

Posts Contact FAQs

A Here's a question for you: what do a lot of the biggest hits at the cinema these days have in common? The answer is ... they're films about superheroes! But why are superhero films so popular with audiences at the moment?

B The first reason is what's called 'escapism'. Sometimes life can be pretty dull – we have the same routine most days and very few exciting or unexpected things happen. Superhero films help us to escape from all this. They offer us strange, new worlds and exciting heroes with amazing abilities. They show us a world that's far more interesting than our own.

C Secondly, although superheroes have special powers, they aren't perfect and they have their own personal problems and challenges. Stan Lee, the man who came up with some of the greatest superheroes, said that he tried to make them human, too, so that we can feel a connection with them. For example, Shuri, in Black Panther, has to keep proving she is talented and intelligent because many people think she is just a teenage girl.

D Thirdly, many of us need some kind of hero to admire. It could be a sports person (Rafa Nadal), a pop star (Taylor Swift), a religious leader (the Dalai Lama) or an activist (Greta Thunberg). These people inspire us and give us hope that there can be improvement in the world. Perhaps superheroes do the same thing, even though they inhabit a fantasy world.

E Finally, our fascination with superheroes is nothing new. The first great book of world literature, The Epic of Gilgamesh, is about 4,000 years old. And what's the plot? It tells the story of the combat between Gilgamesh, part god and part man, and Enkidu, a wild man that the gods create to fight Gilgamesh. (Spoiler alert – Gilgamesh wins the fight!) No one's made a very successful film about The Epic of Gilgamesh yet. But with the present interest in superhero films, and the possibilities of computer-generated imagery, maybe someone's writing the script now. Perhaps it's the next big hit!

  - c They show us different parts of the world.
- 3 What does Mike say about Shuri?
  - a Not everybody trusts she is clever.
  - b She wants to be Black Panther.
  - c She is tired of proving her intelligence.
- 4 Why do we like superheroes?
  - a They have fantastic abilities.
  - b We are interested in their personal story.
  - c They have to deal with real problems.
- 5 What do superheroes possibly do?
  - a They replace real-life heroes.
  - b They make us want to inhabit fantasy worlds.
  - c They make us feel that we, too, can do important things.
- 6 What does the blog post say about The Epic of Gilgamesh?

An article 2

Two series worth watching!

Use expressions of opinion: Personally, I don't believe.

As far as I'm concerned, The Expanse is one of the best series on at the moment. It's a science-fiction series about a secret plan to destroy all humans. The show combines everything I love in TV shows – politics, technology, brilliant special effects and a gripping story. The main characters are all really interesting, too. The plot is slightly confusing in the first two or three episodes, but don't worry – everything soon becomes clear!

Use adjectives to describe the films: brilliant, gripping, interesting, amazing, beautiful.

I also recommend The Dark Crystal: Age of Resistance. It's a fantasy series that takes place on the planet Thra. The creatures who live there, the Gelflings, are in danger because the Skeksis are stealing the power from a dark crystal. Personally, I'm surprised I'm enjoying this series so much because the characters are puppets*. I used to think that puppets are for young children but I don't believe that's true now. The puppets are amazing, and the design of the fantasy world is beautiful. And the Skeksis are terrifying.

In my opinion, both The Expanse and The Dark Crystal are top-quality entertainment. Why don't you try one of them? They're so good!

*puppet (n.): a small model of a person or animal that you move by pulling wires or strings, or by putting your hand inside it.

- 1 The ..... of dangerous waste is one of the worries of the Ministry of the Environment.
- 2 One of the ways to get rid of non-toxic waste is to use it as .....
- 3 Electric cars seem to be more ..... than those using fossil fuels.
- 4 Disposing of the batteries of electric cars is becoming an ..... as they become more common.
- 5 A challenge for electric car makers is how to recycle their batteries – lithium, its main component, is very ..... for the environment.

 Critical thinkers

6 Tick (✓) the ideas which the writer agrees with.

- 1 Landfill is a good solution for e-waste.
- 2 We need to make it easier to recycle all e-waste.
- 3 If individuals recycle their e-waste properly, we will solve the problem.
- 4 Consumers, and not companies, are the key to solving the problem.

Do you really need a NEW MOBILE PHONE?

A What do you think of when someone talks about recycling waste? Paper? Organic waste? There's another type of waste which is problematic: e-waste. This is things like mobile phones and computers. Inside these 'cool' products, there are some very toxic heavy metals that can cause serious damage to the environment. If we burn this waste, we get air pollution. If we put it in landfill, toxic chemicals go into the earth and, in the end, pollute the water.

B So, what's the right thing to do if you want to throw away your old mobile phone or laptop? For a start, don't put it in with your usual rubbish. Take it to a recycling point! However, even if you do this, you might find that they don't accept your e-waste if it's big – for example, a laptop or the main part of a computer. That's the first problem with e-waste – finding somewhere to recycle it.

C However, there's a much bigger issue that many people don't know about. The European Union and the US are sending tonnes of e-waste to poorer countries. When this e-waste arrives, these countries don't have the technology to dispose of it properly. This causes direct harm to the people who handle it and also to the population in general.

D What are the solutions to the e-waste problem? First, as individuals, we need to recycle our e-waste responsibly. Second, tech companies will need to look into ways to make it easier to repair their products so that people can continue to use them. At the moment, tech companies are more interested in producing new models and don't want to extend the life of existing ones. Third, if we want a new smartphone, we can buy it from a company like Fairphone, which produces phones that are eco-friendly and easy to repair. Finally, and most importantly, we can stop buying the latest model every one or two years, and keep our phone for longer. A large part of the solution is actually in our hands. However, are we prepared to consume less?

From: Josh

Hi Ben,

I'm not feeling well at the moment, so I don't play football this evening. I'll see the doctor this afternoon. He will tell me that I need to stay in bed – let's see! I hope that I'm going to be OK at the weekend because we go to the beach. I perhaps don't want to miss that! I saw on my phone that the weather is great.

I'm tired, so I think I'm going to have a rest now. Perhaps I phone you later.

Developing writing

An opinion essay

Start with an introduction.

Use linkers of sequence, addition and contrast.

Present different information or points in different paragraphs.

End with a conclusion.

A In my opinion, climate change is the biggest global problem that we have. I believe that it is possible to stop it. However, there are several things that we urgently need to do if we want to avoid a disaster.

B First, all countries need to have a plan to reduce their carbon emissions. Furthermore, they need to follow this plan even if important companies don't agree with it.

C Secondly, governments need to come up with new ways of reusing, recycling or disposing of waste. What's more, it's important to make it easier for citizens to recycle waste. This is especially important in the case of e-waste.

D Finally, all of us need to accept that we are responsible for stopping global warming. This means that it's important to consume less. For example, we can stop buying so many clothes and we can keep the same mobile phone for longer.

E All in all, I think that we can stop climate change. Nevertheless, this will only happen if governments and citizens take action now.

Luke Matthews

Use expressions of opinion.

Use need for strong recommendations.

Use the zero and first conditional to describe conditional events in the present and future.

1 ☆ Look at Luke's notes for the essay, Do you think it's possible to stop climate change? Now read the essay and tick (✓) the ideas that Luke used in the end.

- 1 We can stop climate change!
- 2 Governments must have a specific plan.
- 3 We must save the rainforests!
- 4 Recycle more – very important!
- 5 We must use renewable energy!
- 6 Plastic bags must be illegal!
- 7 It's everyone's responsibility!
- 8 We haven't got much time!

2 ☆☆ Identify the main idea in paragraphs B–D. Then decide which paragraph (B, C or D) these ideas go in.

- 1 People who don't recycle must pay a fine.
- 2 We'll need to change our attitudes.
- 3 We mustn't do business with countries that don't have an emissions plan.
- 4 All governments must recycle their own waste and not send it to other countries.

3 ☆☆ Complete the sentences with the linkers. There are two linkers which you do not need.

finally • however • what's more

1 I agree with Luke that we can stop climate change. ...., I agree that the situation is urgent. ...., I don't agree with all the ideas in the essay.

finally • firstly • nevertheless • secondly

2 In my opinion, there are several things which we can do. ...., we must stop using fossil fuels by 2040. ...., all new houses must have solar panels. ...., all cars must be electric by 2030.

Reading

1 Read the article quickly. What are the two keys for success at work?

- 1 being bright and teamwork
- 2 communicating well and teamwork
- 3 teamwork and resilience

Great students' tip

Reading: Specific information

When you look for specific information in a text, don't look for exactly the same words as in the question. Focus on the ideas or topic you need to look for.

2 32 Read the article again. Decide if the sentences are True (T) or False (F).

- 1 If you're intelligent, you'll probably do very well at work. T / F
- 2 Teamwork was less important in companies before. T / F
- 3 If you have good communication skills, you'll definitely work well in a team. T / F
- 4 The writer says that it helps if people think you are hilarious. T / F
- 5 Resilient people stop trying when they are disappointed. T / F
- 6 An author thinks that many American university students are not very resilient. T / F
- 7 The writer of the article can understand why companies think resilience is important. T / F
- 8 In work and life you need very different skills. T / F

3 Match the underlined words in the article to the meanings.

- 1 abilities .....
- 2 jobs .....
- 3 professional life .....
- 4 something that you think is especially important .....
- 5 organisations that pay people to work for them .....

Critical thinkers

4 Which two of these opinions does the writer express about the qualities needed to be successful at work?

- 1 It's often a disadvantage to be bright.
- 2 Companies aren't interested in what degree you've got.
- 3 Teamwork is more difficult than it appears.
- 4 You should listen more than you speak.
- 5 Resilience is useful in life.

The key to

SUCCESS

at work

If you look at your classmates, who do you think will have the most successful career? You might think it's the brightest or most creative ones. But the reality is that there are plenty of intelligent people, or people with lots of ideas, who don't do well at work. To understand why, it's helpful to look at two qualities which employers say are especially important these days.

Teamwork is the first of them. There's a good reason why the ability to work in a team is such an important priority for employers nowadays. The world of work has changed a lot in the last 30–40 years. Collaborative projects that require teamwork have become much more common. At the same time, the ability to do routine tasks is much less important. Teamwork sounds simple, but it's a combination of different skills. First, you must have good communication skills. You have to clearly explain what you're doing and describe any problems which you come across. You must also be a good listener because when you work in a team, it's not about what you want but what the team needs. Finally, you must have good social skills. You don't have to be the funniest person in the world, but people must enjoy working with you.

Resilience is another quality that employers often mention. Resilience means behaving positively when things don't go well or when you have problems. To understand why resilience is so important, a popular article on the website Psychology Today can help. The author thinks that many students at American universities these days are very 'fragile' and cannot deal with everyday problems. For example, a lot of them have an emotional crisis when they don't get the grades they were expecting in an exam. In one extreme example of fragility, two students called the police when they found a mouse in their flat. In addition, they suffered emotional stress and needed help from a specialist. So, perhaps it's not surprising that these days employers value resilience so highly!

Of course, there's no magic formula for success at work. However, if you're good at working in a team, and if you can maintain a positive attitude when problems appear, you definitely have the right qualities to do well at work ... and in life.

CUMBRIA Volunteer Opportunities

Volunteers wanted to help on nature reserves in Cumbria

- We are looking for enthusiastic volunteers to work at our nature reserves.
  - You will help us to do practical conservation jobs during the year. Examples are: planting trees, cleaning rivers and building hives for bees!
  - You must be responsible, be able to work as part of a team, and like working outdoors (in all kinds of weather!).
- Send your application to the address on our website.

Q

B I U ~~ab~~ x<sub>2</sub> x<sup>2</sup> ☰

Dear Mr White,

I am writing in response to your advertisement on the Cumbria – Volunteer Opportunities website. I would like to apply for a job as a volunteer on a nature reserve this summer.

I am a very responsible person. For example, I often look after my younger sister when my parents go out for the evening. Furthermore, I play football for my school, so I completely understand the importance of working in a team. I also like walking in the country and birdwatching, so I don't mind being outside in bad weather!

I have never worked as a volunteer on a nature reserve but I have helped to collect litter in the parks in my area at weekends.

Could you please tell me if I need to go for an interview?

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

James Ashworth

Begin your letter in a formal way.

Say immediately why you are writing.

Say what experience you have.

Make a polite request for some extra information.

Describe your personal qualities and give examples. Make sure that you include any personal qualities included in the advertisement!

End your letter in a formal way.

1 ☆ Read the job advert and James's reply to it. Choose the correct alternative.

- 1 James says why he's writing at the beginning/ in the middle of his email.
- 2 James describes personal qualities which are/aren't important for the job.
- 3 James describes his hobbies/experience.
- 4 James asks about when he can start/ if he needs to talk to them about the job.
- 5 James uses formal/informal language.
- 6 James uses short/long forms of verbs.
- 7 James's letter has/doesn't have a clear structure.

Reading: Guessing from context

When there's a word that you don't understand, look carefully at the words before and after it. This can help you to decide what type of word it is (noun, verb, adjective, etc.) and its possible meaning.

3 Read the definitions of the underlined words in the text and choose the correct alternative.

- 1 pressure: results/stress
- 2 row: conversation/big argument
- 3 mind: brain/face
- 4 rage: embarrassment/extreme anger
- 5 dealing with: responding to/stopping

Critical thinkers

4 Which two of these opinions are expressed by the author?

- 1 Without meditation, Ray Dalio wouldn't be so successful.
- 2 Reducing stress is good.
- 3 We should practise mindfulness when we eat.
- 4 Mindfulness makes us more efficient.
- 5 With mindfulness training, exam results would be 550% higher.

Every morning Ray Dalio sits comfortably, closes his eyes and repeats the same couple of words for 20 minutes. While he's doing this activity, he focuses completely on it. He's done this for over 40 years. There's another thing about Mr Dalio that you should know: he's one of the richest people in the world. He says that practising this simple exercise has probably been the most important reason for his success. It helps him to slow down so that he can act calmly, even in situations of great stress.

Almost none of us are billionaires like Mr Dalio. However, we all have one thing in common with him: stress in our lives. Perhaps, for you, it's caused by the pressure of exams or, sometimes, by having a row with your parents. However, doing simple exercises like Mr Dalio can help us to reduce this stress. The good news is that schools are beginning to teach these techniques.

In several countries, including the US and the UK, some primary and secondary schools are starting to teach what is called 'mindfulness'. When we are in a mindful state, we are calm and our mind is not full of a thousand different thoughts. We concentrate on what is happening in the present moment: for example, on our breathing or on some words. We can also practise mindfulness when we do everyday activities. For example, when we are eating, we can focus on how the food tastes.

Mindfulness won't help us control all the thoughts and emotions that come into our head. But it can help us to stop these emotions from controlling us. When we are mindful, we can create a space between the emotion (for example, anger or, even worse, rage) and how we respond to it. Through mindfulness, we can also learn to focus better. This helps us to do all kinds of activities more efficiently.

In one school in Denver, Colorado, they analysed the results of a mindfulness programme. The students who had received mindfulness training were 250% better at dealing with their emotions than their classmates who hadn't been on the programme, and their exam grades were 550% better! These results are so spectacular that we have to ask a very simple question: why aren't we teaching mindfulness in all our schools?

Rhys and Mason are good friends. They are playing basketball every Saturday. Last Saturday, they started playing at 12 o'clock and, by 5.30, they played two whole games. After they were finished, Rhys had a shower and then he was going home. However, his back and neck had really hurt. He was a bit worried. Maybe he injured his back during the basketball games. But this never happened before. Rhys decided to have a long, hot bath. Then he went to bed. Luckily, when he had got up the next morning, he discovered that his pain went. It wasn't anything serious after all.

An email of advice

From: Matt

Hi Oliver,

It's great to hear from you! I'm doing fine at my new school! Thanks for asking! I'm really sorry to hear about your problem. Here's my advice.

Write a friendly introduction before you give your advice. → It's great to hear from you! I'm doing fine at my new school! Thanks for asking! I'm really sorry to hear about your problem. Here's my advice.

Use words and expressions to order your advice. → First I think you really have to accept reality: Adam doesn't want to spend time with you. The exact reason why isn't very important. I know Adam's attitude hurts because you've been friends for so long. But you can't make him be your friend! What's more, people change and there's nothing we can do about it. Next, if I were you, I'd try to make some new friends. If you had more friends, you wouldn't feel so bad about Adam. Perhaps you can join a club at school. Finally, you should stop sending Adam messages! If he wants to contact you, he knows how!

Use short form of verbs. → you've

Use different expressions to give advice. → if I were you, I'd try to End with a friendly close. → Anyway, I hope you find this advice useful.

Good luck!
Matt

1 ☆ Read Oliver's email and Matt's reply to it. Decide if the sentences are True (T) or False (F).

JAMES PATTERSON

– the writing machine

Who's the most popular author in the world right now? Many people would guess that it's J.K. Rowling, creator of the Harry Potter novels, popular with children – and adults – around the world. (a)..... There's someone who's written far more bestsellers than Ms Rowling, although you might not know his name – James Patterson.

Patterson was born in the town of Newburgh, about 60 miles from New York, in 1947. (b)..... Since then, his books have sold more than 330 million copies and he was the first author to sell more than one million e-books. In total, Patterson has written about 150 novels and graphic novels and the number goes up every year! He's written for a wide variety of audiences – adults, young adults and pre-teens. What's more, he doesn't work at a computer. (c)..... So, how is it possible for one man to write so many stories?

When Patterson began his career as a novelist, he wrote on his own, like everyone else. However, he gradually realised that his real talent, and what he enjoyed most, was coming up with the ideas for plots. So, now he usually writes the outline of each novel. (d)..... This is what happens in the famous Middle School series. While the author is writing, Patterson looks over their work and suggests corrections.

Some authors have criticised Patterson's books. They say their style is very simple and the main characters are one-dimensional. (e)..... But he says that he's not trying to produce literary masterpieces. He wants to make the reader turn over the page and read on. His ambition is to make reading so gripping that you can't put the book down – nothing more and nothing less.

Patterson has said that there is no such thing as a person who doesn't like to read. (f)..... With his easy-to-read stories and exciting plots, Patterson has put the 'right book' in the hands of millions of readers around the world. (g)..... But, in his own way, he's helping people to experience the immense pleasure of reading a good story.

Divide your story into paragraphs to make it easier to read.

Use words and expressions of time and sequence.

1 Ben was surprised when he received the message. It was from a number he didn't recognise. The message said that Manchester United was interested in him! Ben was puzzled. How had they got his number? And when had they seen him play football?

2 After a few minutes, Ben nervously phoned the number. It really was Manchester United! They told him that someone from the club had seen him playing football in the park. They said that Ben should go to the club at ten o'clock the following Saturday to play in a practice match.

3 Ben was delighted! He was happily jumping up and down in his bedroom and shouting when, suddenly, his dad knocked on the door. He angrily asked Ben why he was making so much noise! After Ben's dad had heard the news, he calmly told Ben that someone was probably playing a joke on him. But, was it a joke or not? Next Saturday Ben would find out!

- 3 Virtual-reality simulations are the perfect way of practising for quarterbacks. F / O
- 4 Virtual reality is a technology full of amazing possibilities. F / O

I CAN'T BELIEVE IT'S NOT REAL!

In the classic sci-fi series Star Trek, there's a device called a transporter that takes you anywhere in the galaxy in seconds. We're not going to see an invention like that in our lifetimes, but now we can be transported to a completely different world immediately – not physically, but in our minds. All you have to do is put on a special headset or goggles and interact with the display. If you haven't guessed, we're talking about what's called virtual or artificial reality. It's already become very popular with video gamers, because it lets them become immersed in the game's fantasy world and have the sensation that they are actually there. However, the possible applications of virtual reality go far beyond games which are played just for fun.

Professional sport is one area where the potential of artificial reality is being explored. There's a simple reason for this. One of the keys to success in top-level sport is repeated practice. But this practice needs to be as realistic as possible. The immersive learning experience provided by virtual reality lets players practise anytime, anywhere, in conditions that closely resemble real-life competition.

Virtual-reality training is now used by many American football teams. It's especially useful for a player called the quarterback, who is the 'brain' of the team and has to decide how the ball is used. Quarterbacks have to practise hundreds of different situations before a game so that they know exactly what to do in each one. Virtual-reality simulations are the perfect way of doing this.

Skiing is another sport which is benefitting from the use of virtual-reality environments. In the 2018 Winter Olympics in South Korea for example, none of the skiers had much time to practise on the course before they competed. So, the American team had a virtual-reality model made of the exact course. When they practised on this model, their brains and bodies reacted in the same way as in a real-life competition.

High-level sports is just one area where virtual reality can play a role. For example, in the tourism industry they're experimenting with giving customers a virtual experience of destinations before they book their holidays. And in the future, the use of virtual reality will only be limited by our imagination. It's not the world of Star Trek, but it is a technology full of amazing possibilities.

Natalie Hampton was 12 when she started at her new school. Her classmates told her that she couldn't sit with them in class. Things gradually got worse but her parents didn't try to help her. In the end, Natalie decided to change schools.

At Natalie's new school, they treated her like a member of a team. However, she always remembered her past experience. When someone was unhappy at lunch, she sat next to them. When she was 15, she created an app to help excluded students.

With Sit With Us, students find someone to talk to at lunch. In some ways, it is very different from other social media apps. It has had over 100,000 downloads and it's not expensive.

Comparing and contrasting photos

1 47 ☆ Listen to a girl describing the two photos. Choose the correct alternative.

- The girl describes two/three similarities between the two photos.
- The girl describes three/four differences between the two photos.

2 47 ☆☆ Complete the girl's description with the correct words. Then listen and check.

(a) The both/Both of the photos show people playing games. In the first photo they're wearing virtual headsets (b) whereas/however in the second they've got video consoles in their hands. Perhaps they're playing a virtual-reality game in the first photo. (c) Other/Another difference between the photos is that they're standing in the first one but they're sitting in the second. One (d) contrast/similarity between the photos is that the players are having a good time in both of them. They've got big smiles on their faces in the two photos. Another (e) thing/subject they have in common is that they're all in a house. In the first photo there isn't any food. (f) But/In contrast, in the second one, there's a bowl of popcorn. And in the first photo there are two boys. (g) However/Whereas, in the second photo there are two girls.

Pronunciation

3 48 ☆ Underline the stressed syllables in the words and phrases. Listen and check. Then repeat for practice.

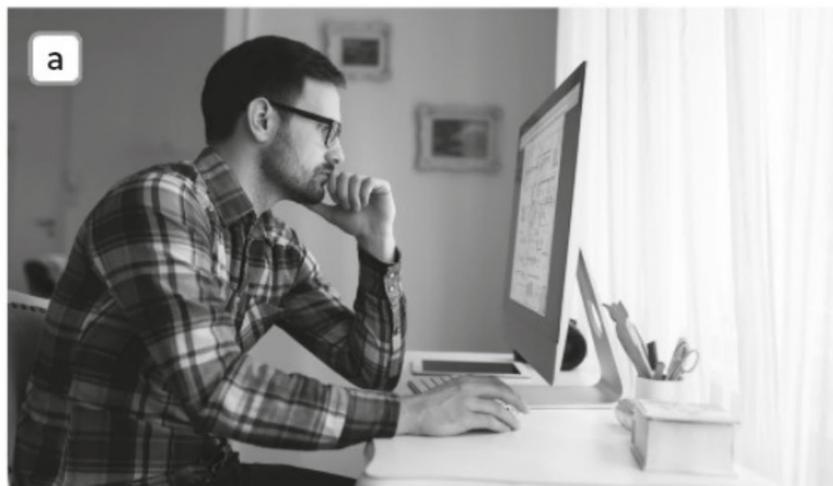

- |              |                |
|--------------|----------------|
| 1 another    | 6 whereas      |
| 2 the other  | 7 second       |
| 3 similarity | 8 difference   |
| 4 between    | 9 however      |
| 5 in common  | 10 in contrast |

Great students' tip

Speaking: Practice is the key!

If you want to speak with more fluency, you need to practise as much as you can. Try speaking to your friends in English sometimes. You can also try speaking to yourself in English! If there's a language school near you, think about going to classes. Several websites also organise conversation exchanges using applications like Skype, Hangouts, etc.

4 ☆☆☆ Prepare a presentation comparing and contrasting these two photos. Follow the steps below.

1 Look at the two photos. Make notes on the similarities and differences between them. Use the questions below to help you:

How many people are there in each photo?

What are they doing?

Where are they?

What things can you see in the background?

What are the similarities?

What are the differences?

2 Use your notes and the expressions in 2 and 3 to help you prepare your presentation.

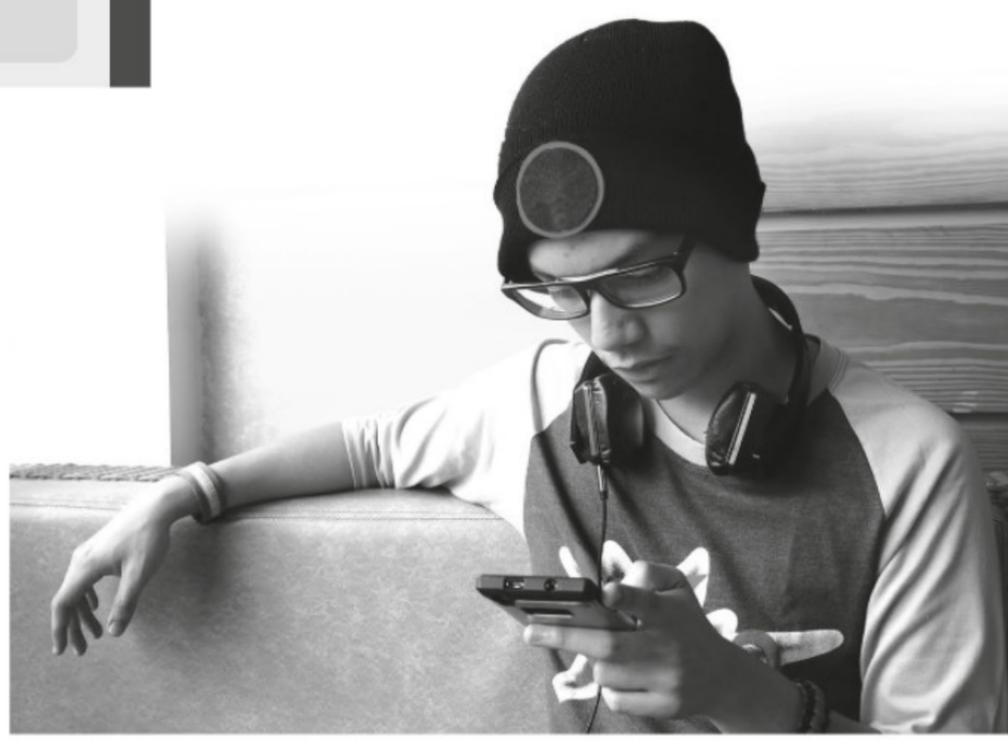

3 Practise giving your presentation and, if possible, record yourself.

Writing bank

How to write messages

- We often use abbreviations instead of writing the complete word. There are different ways to make abbreviations.
- Sometimes we make abbreviations by taking away vowels from the word (e.g. pls = please, wknd = weekend).
- Sometimes we make abbreviations by replacing words or parts of a word with symbols or numbers because they sound like that word or that part of the word (e.g. @ = at, L8R = later, b4 = before, 2moro = tomorrow).
- Sometimes we make abbreviations by using one letter to make a whole word, because it sounds like that word (e.g. R = are, n = and)
- Sometimes we use 'incorrect' letters because they sound like the correct letter (e.g. thx = thanks, bcz = because).
- Sometimes we make abbreviations by using just the first letters of each word in a phrase (e.g. BRB = Be right back, BTW = By the way, TTYL = Talk to you later, JK = just kidding)
- Remember! These abbreviations are generally informal. It is not correct to use them in other types of writing like compositions, formal letters, etc.
- We can also use emoticons like XD or emojis like 😂 in messages to show emotions.

Reading

✓ Exam summary

Paper 1: Reading

The Preliminary for Schools Reading exam has six parts with a total of 32 questions. Each question is worth one mark. You have 45 minutes to complete all parts of the exam.

In Part 1, there are five short notices, messages and other short texts that are based on things you might read in your everyday life (e.g. a text from a friend, a poster or notice at school, a note from a family member, etc.). Each question consists of three options (A, B or C).

In Part 2, there are five descriptions of young people (1–5) and eight short texts (A–H) related to a topic (e.g. summer camps, science websites, school clubs, etc.). You must match the descriptions in the profiles to five of the eight texts.

In Part 3, there are five four-option multiple choice questions (A, B, C or D) for a longer text. Note that the first four questions follow the order of the text but the last question tests global understanding.

In Part 4, there is a longer text with gaps from which five sentences have been removed. You have eight sentences (A–H) to choose from to fill in the gaps.

In Part 5, there is a shorter text, which is usually of a factual nature (e.g. a famous person, location, celebration, etc.), with six gaps. There are six four-option multiple-choice questions. You must choose the correct word to complete each gap.

In Part 6, there is a shorter text with six gaps. You must read the text and write the correct word to complete each gap.

Part 1

This section tests your understanding of different kinds of short texts. You will read each short text for the main idea. For this task, you should:

- read the text to decide where you might find the information (e.g. is it an email from school, a pinned public notice, a text from a friend or relative, etc.?)
- read the three options carefully, sometimes there is a question with three options and sometimes just three statements for you to choose from)
- find the option that exactly matches the main meaning in the text.

1 For each question, choose the correct answer.

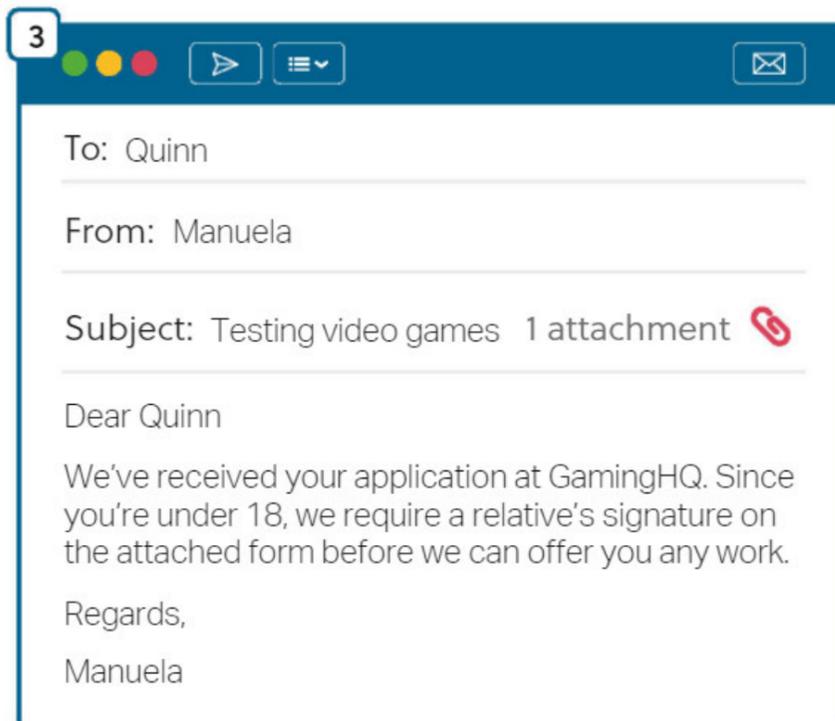

Why has Luis sent this message?

- A to recommend an environmental group to Valeria
- B to ask Valeria's advice about setting up a new group
- C to check if Valeria's group is looking for any more volunteers

- A You will have to practise for a certain period to receive a free tennis session.
- B The teacher is offering lessons only to people who have played tennis before.
- C In order to attend the lessons, you need to have your own racket.

- A Quinn will be able to start testing video games for GamingHQ as soon as he turns 18.
- B A member of Quinn's family must give GamingHQ permission so he can test video games.
- C GamingHQ has contacted Quinn to inform him that his application was not successful.

Part 2

This section tests your understanding of factual information. You will read profiles of young people and match them to short texts about a topic. For this task you should:

- read and underline the key information in each profile
- read the short texts and underline any information that matches the descriptions in the profiles
- make sure a text has all of the requirements that are mentioned in the profile
- avoid simply matching up the same words that appear in the profile and in the texts; instead, look for words or expressions that have similar meaning in the profiles and texts.

2 For each question, choose the correct answer.

The young people (1–3) need to find some information online for a geography project. Decide which website (A–E) would be most suitable for each person.

- 1 Santiago would like to research places with extreme weather conditions. He also wants to see how the industries and populations are changing at some of these locations.

- 2 Lola wants to see diagrams of particular countries in each continent. She also needs to see the kinds of products different regions are famous for producing and who they sell them to.

- 3 Nina needs to compare data of different cities and find out how they are helping to protect the environment. She's keen to watch interviews of young people talking about what it's like where they live.

Reading

Part 3

This section tests your understanding of the writer's opinion, attitude and purpose as well as of details and the general meaning of the text. You will read a longer text and have to answer four-option multiple-choice questions. For this task you should:

- quickly read the text to get a general understanding
- read the text in more detail as you complete each question one by one
- make sure you compare each option with the text before choosing an answer
- remember that the final question is about global meaning so it tests your understanding of the text as a whole.

3 For each question, choose the correct answer.

Quincy MacShane's board game

Quincy finished reading her first Nancy Drew mystery book when she was only nine years old. She was instantly attracted to the main character, Nancy Drew, because she is confident, clever and solves mysteries that no one else can. By the time she was 13, she had read every novel in the series, and knew everything there was to know about the young detective.

She was also a huge fan of playing board games even though her friends mainly played video games. She decided to create a game about Nancy Drew so they could do something fun together. When her board game was finally ready, she felt anxious thinking her friends wouldn't enjoy playing it because they hadn't read any of the series. In the end, everyone wanted to keep playing despite not knowing much about the main character.

After Quincy tried her board game out on her friends, she started her own company called Sutherland Games. Then she set up a Kickstarter campaign to raise $20,000 so she would have enough money to start selling the board game in shops. More than anything, she would like more young people to see how novels can have a positive effect in their lives like they have had for her. Hopefully, Quincy's board game will be a great success, and people will enjoy playing a game that gets you to use your imagination to solve mysteries, just like Nancy Drew would.

- 1 What does Quincy say happened when she was nine years old?
  - A She decided to read an entire series before turning 13.
  - B She became interested in different types of novels.
  - C She discovered a book character she admired.
  - D She dreamt of becoming a detective.
- 2 What does Quincy say she was worried about?
  - A Her friends wouldn't be interested in playing her board game.
  - B Her friends would prefer playing video games rather than her board game.
  - C Her friends would think Nancy Drew was a boring character to base a game on.
  - D Her friends wouldn't want to spend time reading about Nancy Drew to play the game.
- 3 Quincy hopes her game will ...
  - A teach young people particular business skills.
  - B earn a lot of money because of its original idea.
  - C encourage people to see the benefits of reading.
  - D get more people to start reading the Nancy Drew series.
- 4 What might Quincy write in her diary?
  - A I'm worried that not many people are going to like my game because it's too complicated!
  - B I think that only people who have read the Nancy Drew series will want to buy my game.
  - C I'm really pleased that my friends have asked if they can play my board game this weekend!
  - D I believe that my board game would be much more successful if it was a computer game.

Part 4

This section tests your ability to follow a narrative text, its structure and the attitudes and opinions described. You will read a longer text from which some sentences have been removed and replaced by numbered gaps. You have to choose sentences that correctly fill the gaps. There are more sentences than you need. For this task you should:

- quickly read the text to get a general understanding of the narrative
- compare the list of sentences to find which one best fits each gap
- check the text before and after the gap to make sure the selected sentence follows the narrative of the text and also makes sense grammatically
- fill all the gaps and then read the whole text to check that it is logical.

4 Four sentences have been removed from the text below. For each question, choose the correct answer. There are two extra sentences which you do not need to use.

- A Unfortunately, the rubbish floating in rivers and canals usually ended up in the ocean.
- B That was until she heard about Paddington Basin, which is also known as 'Little Venice'.
- C Despite this, she wanted to make people aware of the problem of microplastics.
- D Now over 65 countries are taking part in it to help protect the environment.
- E This is a type of surfing that first originated thousands of years ago in Hawaii.
- F She was even more shocked to see birds using rubbish to build their nests.

#PLASTICPATROL

Lizzie Carr is based in London and is helping the environment by cleaning up plastic whenever she goes paddleboarding. (1)..... She first saw someone paddleboarding on a beach near her dad's home in the Scilly Isles during a family visit. When Lizzie returned to London, she didn't realise you could paddleboard in a city. (2)..... Soon she was regularly paddleboarding around there. Though it's a beautiful location, Lizzie couldn't help but notice the amount of plastic floating everywhere. (3)..... That's when Lizzie felt she had to do something about this problem. In 2016, she began her #PlasticPatrol campaign by paddleboarding over 22 days along 643 kilometres of England's inland waterways, collecting and geotagging any plastic she saw along the way. (4)..... Because of Lizzie, thousands of people are now helping to clean up the Earth.

Reading

Part 5

This task mainly tests vocabulary. You will read a short text from which some words have been removed. You have to find the missing word out of four-option questions. For this task you should:

- quickly read the passage to get a general understanding of the text and the topic
- read the whole sentence and then the four choices to see which word best fills the gap
- pay attention to the words before and after the gap, as they may help you to decide which option is correct
- note that each word in the options will always be of the same word class (e.g. nouns, adverbs, verbs, adjectives, etc.)
- fill all the gaps and then read the whole text to check it makes sense.

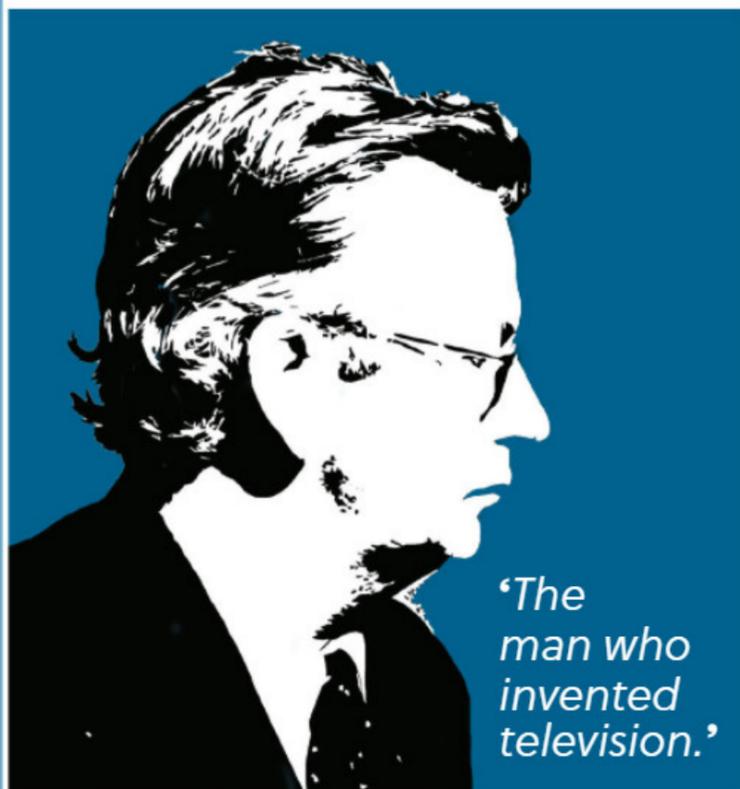

5 For each question, choose the correct answer.

Who was John Logie Baird?

John Logie Baird was a Scottish engineer and inventor born in 1888. As a boy, he loved doing (1) ..... with electronics.

Baird invented a mechanical television he called the 'televisor'. It worked like a radio but could produce a video to (2) ..... the sound. He (3) ..... to build it out of everyday objects such as biscuit tins and bicycle lamps.

In 1924, Baird developed the technology to produce a very light moving image. The following year, he made (4) ..... progress when the 'televisor' could produce TV pictures in black and white. On 26th January 1926, Baird was the first inventor to have an audience watch TV on his 'televisor'.

'The man who invented television.'

| C managed     | D realised     |
| 4 A further   | B particularly |
| C rather      | D suddenly     |

Part 6

This part tests your grammatical knowledge. You will read a short text from which some words have been removed and write the word that correctly fills the gap. For this task you should:

- quickly read the text to get a general understanding
- read the sentences with gaps carefully, then think of one word that makes sense in each gap – fill all the gaps you're sure of first, and then move on to the others
- check that your spelling is correct, or you will lose points
- note that the gaps usually test grammatical structures such as conjunctions, adverbs, prepositions and auxiliary verbs; some common fixed phrases and phrasal verbs may also be tested
- fill all the gaps then read the whole text to check it makes sense.

6 For each question, write the correct answer. Write one word for each gap.

Paper 2: Writing

Paper 2 includes two questions worth a total of 40 points (20 marks each). For each question, you need to write 100–120 words. You have 45 minutes to complete both questions.

In Part 1, there is an email with four notes. You need to reply to the email by including the information related to the four notes.

In Part 2, there is a choice between writing an article or a story. You can choose to answer the question you feel you are able to answer best.

For Parts 1 and 2, you are tested on the following:

- Content. Have you done what the instructions have asked you to do?
- Communicative achievement. Have you used the correct style for the task?
- Organisation. Have you written your ideas in a logical order?
- Language. Have you used a varied vocabulary and different tenses and grammatical structures correctly?

✍ Part 1

You will write an email in about 100 words. There are four notes in the email for you to respond to. For this task, you should:

- read the instructions to know who you are writing to and why you are writing
- read the email and the four notes you need to include in your reply, and make your own notes for each point
- start and end your email with the correct greeting and ending
- follow the order of the paragraphs and include references to all the notes in the email
- read your email to check your grammar and spelling and make sure the meaning is clear.

1 Read this email from your English-speaking friend Tina and the notes you have made.

Not really! Hi,
 Are you OK? I heard that you were injured at the basketball match! What happened?
 You weren't in class today so something must be wrong – you never miss school. I'm really worried about you. Can I come over to see how you're doing?
 Let me know how I can help.
 Take care,
 Tina

Tell Tina

Say when

You could...

Write your email to Tina using all the notes. Write about 100 words.

✍ Part 2

You will need to write an article or a story in about 100 words. Read both questions carefully then decide which option you prefer.

For the article:

Option A: you will read an announcement from a magazine or a website with the topic you must write about. If you choose to write the article, you should:

- read the announcement carefully
- brainstorm some ideas that answer the points in the announcement
- plan your article: you need a paragraph to introduce the topic, another to develop it and a third one to end your article
- write your article following your plan; you don't need to write a title
- make sure the meaning is clear and there are no spelling or grammar mistakes.

Option B: you will read the first sentence of a story and will have to continue it. If you choose to write the story, you should:

- brainstorm some ideas about who the story is about, where and when it takes place and what happens in it
- plan your story and organise your ideas into at least three paragraphs: an introduction, the events in the story and an ending
- write your story following your plan and remember that the story must begin with the sentence given
- make sure the meaning is clear, and that there are no spelling or grammar mistakes.

2 Choose one of these questions. Write your answer in about 100 words.

Option A

You see this notice on an English-language website.

Write your article.

Articles wanted!

Horror shows

Do you enjoy watching horror shows? Why or why not? Do you think horror shows are a good thing for young people to watch? Why?

Write an article answering these questions and we will put it on our website!

Option B

Your English teacher has asked you to write a story. Your story must begin with this sentence.

As the friends walked towards the cave, they heard a strange noise coming from inside it.

Write your story.

Listening

✓ Exam summary

Paper 3: Listening

The Preliminary for Schools Listening exam has four parts with a total of 25 questions. Each question is worth one mark. You have 30 minutes to complete all parts of the exam, then six minutes to transfer your answers to the answer sheet. For all parts of the listening exam, you will listen to the recordings twice.

In Part 1, you will listen to seven short dialogues or monologues. Each listening passage has a question and three images for you to choose from.

In Part 2, you will listen to six short dialogues. Each dialogue has a sentence to explain the context and a question or sentence to complete. There are three options to choose your answer from.

In Part 3, you will listen to a longer monologue and fill in the six gaps on a page of notes that summarise it. The missing information can be one or two words, a number, a date or a time.

In Part 4, you will listen to a longer interview and answer six three-option multiple-choice questions.

🎧 Part 1

This section tests your understanding of specific information. You will listen and choose the picture that best answers the question. For this part of the exam you should:

- read each question and look at the images
- try to predict the kind of vocabulary you might hear in each recording
- listen for specific information to help you choose the best option
- use the second listening to check your answers.

🎧 Part 2

This section tests your global understanding of separate dialogues. You will listen to short dialogues and answer a question or complete a sentence. There are three options to choose from. For this part of the exam, you should:

- read the statement about the context, the question and the options carefully
- underline the key information in the questions or sentences to be completed
- listen for the main idea of the dialogue to help you choose the best option – use the second listening to check your answers.

1 🎧 ET1 Choose the correct answer.

- 1 Where did the girl go on Sunday?

2 🎧 ET2 For each question, choose the correct answer.

- 1 You will hear a boy telling a friend about a film he saw.
What did he find surprising about it?
A how long it was
B how interesting it was
C how many famous actors were in it
- 2 You will hear an announcement about a concert by a band called Mad Magic.
What information is given?
A There aren't any more tickets available.
B One of the band members won't be there.
C People can't enter after the concert starts.
- 3 You will hear two friends talking about a science exhibition they went to.
What do they agree about the exhibition?
A It was useful to have a guide.
B The information was given clearly.
C There were some interesting pictures to see.

Part 3

This section tests your ability to listen for and write specific information. You will listen to a person talking and complete the missing information in a text. For this part of the exam you should:

- read the instructions and the notes to try to predict the kind of information you might need to write in the gap (details of places, events, trips, courses, etc.)
- remember the order of the information in the passage is the same as in the recording
- listen for key words, numbers or short phrases and write them in the gaps exactly as you hear them in the recording – don't change them in any way –; when a word is spelled out, it must be correctly written
- use the second listening to check your answers and make sure the words make sense in the notes
- check your spelling, or you will lose marks.

- 3  ET3 For each question, write the correct answer in the gap. Write one or two words or a number or a date or a time.

You will hear a teacher telling students about a class trip.

Centre for Computing History

The trip is on (a) .....

The museum has a special exhibition about (b) .....

Everyone will be taught how to make a basic (c) .....

Part 4

This section tests your ability to listen for detailed meaning, attitudes and opinions in a longer recording. You will listen to a longer interview and answer questions about it. For this part of the exam you should:

- read and listen to the instructions, and then read the questions carefully to find what sort of information you should listen for (specific information, attitudes, opinions, etc.)
- focus on the interviewer's questions to know exactly which question you are listening for, and remember that only the person being interviewed will give you the answer to the questions
- use the second listening to check your answers.

- 4  ET4 For each question, choose the correct answer.

You will hear an interview with a boy called Dylan who went to a summer camp in Spain.

- 1 How long did Dylan stay in the summer camp in Spain?
A a couple of months
B a month
C a week
- 2 Why did Dylan enjoy his summer camps in England?
A because they were fun
B because he could learn languages there
C because all his friends went to camps
- 3 Why did Dylan want to go to a summer camp in Spain?
A to have a completely new experience
B to meet people from other cultures
C to improve his language skills
- 4 Why did Dylan have to speak Spanish as soon as he arrived at the summer camp?
A because it was the summer camp rule
B because he wanted to learn fast
C because many students spoke languages other than English
- 5 How did Dylan feel during the first week of summer camp?
A worried he wasn't learning fast enough
B tired from all the activities he had to do
C confident he was one of the best students
- 6 In Dylan's language lessons at the camp, he disliked ...
A having to memorise so many words each day.
B making mistakes in front of his classmates.
C spending time translating long texts.

Speaking

✓ Exam summary

Paper 4: Speaking

The Preliminary for Schools Speaking exam has four parts with a total of 25 marks. In general, you take the exam with a partner, but on some occasions, there may be three students in the exam. The examiner will ask you the questions and an assessor will mark your performance during the 12–17-minute exam.

In Part 1, you will answer questions giving personal information about you, your family, your likes and dislikes, etc.

In Part 2, you will have one minute to describe a photograph.

In Part 3, you will work with your partner making and responding to suggestions, discussing alternative plans and negotiating an agreement.

In Part 4, you will discuss likes, dislikes, opinions, habits, experiences of a topic linked to Part 3.

🗣️ Part 1

This section tests your ability to take part in an everyday conversation. You will have a general conversation with the examiner for two minutes, and answer questions about you, your family, what you do every day, what you like/dislike, etc. For this part of the exam you should:

- only speak to the examiner – do not talk to your partner – and maintain eye contact with the examiner
- listen carefully to the examiner's questions and answer them by giving as much information as possible
- ask the interlocutor to repeat instructions if you don't understand something.

- 1 🎧 ET5 Listen to these questions. Practise answering them giving as much information as possible.

🗣️ Part 2

This section tests your ability to speak fluently on your own and to show your range of vocabulary. You and your partner will receive a colour photo each in turn. You will have about one minute to say what you can see in it. For this part of the exam you should:

- focus on describing what you see in the photo: the objects, colours, clothes, location, time of day, weather and where things are located in the photo
- describe the people, objects and activities in the photo in detail; use as much vocabulary as possible and connect your ideas with conjunctions (e.g. because, so, like, etc.)
- not comment on the context or on what you think about the general situation shown in the photo
- when you don't know how to say a word in English, try to explain what you mean rather than not talking about it (e.g., 'I can't remember what these are called, but you can cut paper with them and they are quite sharp' = scissors).

- 2 Look at this photograph. It shows a boy helping someone. Talk about it for 1 minute.

- 3 Look at this photograph. It shows people doing an activity together. Talk about it for 1 minute.

Part 3

This section tests your ability to use appropriate language and to exchange ideas with your partner. The examiner will show you and your partner some pictures and ask you about an imaginary situation that you both need to discuss for four minutes. You should:

- discuss the situation with your partner by asking him/her questions, giving your opinion about the situation or about his/her ideas, discussing alternatives, making recommendations and trying to negotiate an agreement
- try to talk about all the options in the pictures to keep the discussion moving forward; try not to come to the end of the discussion too quickly – if you do, you won't be able to show how much you know –; the examiner will only ask questions if you run out of things to say.

4 A family want to do an activity together. Here are some activities they could do.

Talk together about these activities, and say which would be most interesting.

Part 4

You and your partner will have three minutes to answer questions about likes/dislikes, habits and opinions linked to Part 3. The examiner may ask you to answer these questions individually or with your partner. This section tests your ability to speak fluently and accurately, and to interact with your partner. You should:

- listen carefully to the questions and answer them by talking about your personal experiences, your likes and dislikes, and sharing your opinions
- give full answers to the questions; give reasons and examples where you can; remember that it's your use of English that is evaluated, not your opinions.

5 Discuss these questions with your partner in about three minutes.

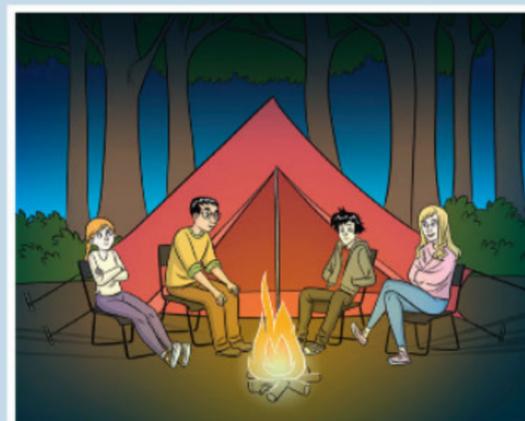

Do you prefer to go on holiday with family or friends? Why?

Who are you closest to in your family? Why?

How often do you visit your relatives? Why?

How do you celebrate birthdays in your family?
