If you will ask people to name important inventions of the 20th century, the list will to include cars, planes, personal computers and, of course, the Internet. The Internet is a form of communication that is used be widely today. It wasn't invented in one particular year, it was been developed over several decades. Initially, in the 1970s, networks were be used internally by research companies. In 1989, a browser called the World Wide Web was created by the Tim Berners-Lee. A few years later other browsers such as Firefox and Chrome were working too. All of them are still to used today. They are known collectively as 'the Web'. In the space of fifteen years the way we communicate has changed completely. The Internet is used for shopping, banking and finding out information rapidly. It is also used to speak to people in other countries because it is not cheaper than the telephone. If we will continue to use the Internet regularly, we won't not talk to people face-to-face so often. It is a fact that if you don't practise something, you will forget how to do it. Will we forget how to communicate with other people?
