

Description	Students put prepositions of movement into a text
Lesson link	Use this activity after exercise 4
Time	10 minutes
Extra material	Print out and photocopy the My great goal worksheet for each student - cut up

Instructions

- a Write the words across, along, into, over, round, through, and towards on the board. Ask SS 'What is the grammar name for these words?'
(Answer: prepositions).
- b Make a copy of the My great goal worksheet for each pair of SS. Tell SS that the prepositions on the board have all been removed from the text and they need to write them back in. There are no gaps because SS must also find the places where each preposition should go.
- c If you prefer, you could take the Answers text and place it in the Clozemaker on the English File website www.oup.co.uk/elt/englishfile/preintermediate. This will remove different words for SS to gap. All the language in the text comes from lesson 5D.
- d If your class is very interested in sport, they might want to talk about their own sporting success stories. Encourage SS to do this as a follow-up activity, but don't concentrate too much on accuracy and correction. Talking about positive experiences in English is a very enjoyable and motivating part of the learning process, and too much correction can make SS feel that people are not listening to what they actually say.

Answers

Everyone remembers their greatest goal. I scored mine about twenty years ago when I was playing football at school. It started in my team's penalty area. My friend Jim kicked the ball along the ground to Mike on the right wing. Mike kicked it through another player's legs and it came towards me. A defender was in front of me but I was quick and I ran round him. I was on the halfway line and I saw the goalkeeper was in the wrong position. I kicked the ball over all the other players, across the whole pitch, and into the goal! It was incredible! Everyone looked at me and I just stood there. It was the most amazing goal of my life, because I scored it from the halfway line ... into a hockey goal! And a hockey goal is half the size of a normal football one! Fantastic!

My great goal

Everyone remembers their greatest goal. I scored mine about twenty years ago when I was playing football at school. It started in my team's penalty area. My friend Jim kicked the ball the ground to Mike on the right wing. Mike kicked it another player's legs and it came me. A defender was in front of me but I was quick and I ran him. I was on the halfway line and I saw the goalkeeper was in the wrong position. I kicked the ball all the other players, the whole pitch, and the goal! It was incredible! Everyone looked at me and I just stood there. It was the most amazing goal of my life, because I scored from the halfway line ... a hockey goal! And a hockey goal is half the size of a normal football one! Fantastic!

My great goal

Everyone remembers their greatest goal. I scored mine about twenty years ago when I was playing football at school. It started in my team's penalty area. My friend Jim kicked the ball the ground to Mike on the right wing. Mike kicked it another player's legs and it came me. A defender was in front of me but I was quick and I ran him. I was on the halfway line and I saw the goalkeeper was in the wrong position. I kicked the ball all the other players, the whole pitch, and the goal! It was incredible! Everyone looked at me and I just stood there. It was the most amazing goal of my life, because I scored from the halfway line ... a hockey goal! And a hockey goal is half the size of a normal football one! Fantastic!