

ASKING FOR HELP

Student A

- 1 You have one side of a conversation. Your partner has the other side. Put the conversation in the correct order. You start:

How's it going?

Don't be silly! Of course I'm sure.

What's the problem?

How's it going?

Oh, dear! Do you need a hand with it?

- 2 Put another conversation into the correct order with your partner. This time, your partner starts.

Sure!

Your new phone?

A favour? It depends. What's the problem?

- 3 Practise your own conversations to ask for help.

- 1 You need help with your computer. Ask for help. You start the conversation.
- 2 Your partner has a problem. Listen and offer to help.

Useful language

Can you do me a favour?

Can you help me, please?

I'm stuck!

Do you need a hand with it?

What's the problem?

Don't be silly! Of course I'm sure!

ASKING FOR HELP

Student B

- 1 You have one side of a conversation. Your partner has the other side. Put the conversation in the correct order. Your partner starts.

Yes, please! But are you sure?

Not great!

I can't do my homework!

- 2 Put another conversation into the correct order with your partner. This time, you start.

Yes. I can't use it and I'm stuck! Can you help me, please?

Can you do me a favour? I've got a problem.

It's my new mobile phone.

- 3 Practise your own conversations to ask for help.

- 1 Your partner has a problem. Listen and offer to help.
- 2 You need help with a geography project. Ask for help. You start the conversation.

Useful language

Can you do me a favour?

Can you help me, please?

I'm stuck!

Do you need a hand with it?

What's the problem?

Don't be silly! Of course I'm sure!