My grandmother recently told me about the time she ¹*signed up for / ended up in / went through* computer lessons, 30 years ago. Her first class ²*did without / turned out / went through* very badly. The instructor told them to type a letter. First she didn't know which ³*key / button / lid* to press to switch the computer on, so the ⁴*lens / cover / display* stayed black. She finally managed to type a paragraph, but then she pressed the delete ⁵*lid / button / key* and lost it all and had to ⁶*go back to / move to / settle down at* the beginning. The class was almost over when the instructor said: 'OK, Advanced Computer Skills lesson two will be on Friday.' That was when she realised she'd ⁷*ended up in / gone through / moved out of* the wrong class!
