DVD clip summary

This DVD clip is about three of the colleges and some of the traditions at Cambridge University.

Background

The University of Cambridge (also known as Cambridge University) is situated in the city of Cambridge, in the east of England, about 100 km north of London. It was founded in 1209 after a number of scholars at Oxford were forced to leave the city following tensions with local people.

The university is made up of 31 independent colleges, over a hundred academic departments and six schools.

The colleges' main responsibilities are the housing, welfare and teaching of undergraduates. The academic departments are responsible for teaching and research and belong to the central university, which awards the degrees.

Cambridge University is a public university and receives about a third of its funding for teaching and research from the British government. It is also the wealthiest university in Europe, mainly because of the colleges, which own large amounts of land and property.

Students wishing to attend the university must apply about a year before they wish to start. As well as having excellent predicted results in their A-level exams, they must also attend an interview before being offered a place. Fees for British and EU undergraduates at Cambridge are £9,250 per year (2017–2018).

Before you watch

Exercise 1

- Read the questions with the class and elicit answers from individual students. Encourage the students to guess the answers they do not already know and use their suggestions to start a class discussion.
- Answers: Students' own answers

Comprehension check

Exercise 2

- Pre-watching: Go through the questions with the students.
-  Play the whole DVD clip. The students choose the correct answers. Check their answers.
- Answers: 1 c 2 b 3 b

Exercise 3

- Pre-watching: Ask the students to read the sentences and try and decide which are about Pembroke College, King's College or Trinity College before they watch the DVD clip again.
- Weaker classes: Tell the students that each college matches two answers.
-  Play the DVD clip to check the answers.
- Answers: 1 P 2 T 3 P 4 K 5 K 6 T

Exercise 4

- Pre-watching: Ask the students to say if the sentences are true or false before they watch the DVD clip again.
- Weaker classes: Play the DVD clip first and pause after each answer.
-  Play the DVD clip to check the answers.
- Answers: 1 true 2 false 3 false 4 true 5 false 6 false 7 false

Round up

Exercise 5

- Put the students in groups. Give them a few minutes to discuss the question.
- Answers: Students' own answers

Vocabulary

Exercise 6

- Ask the students to read through the text first, then complete the sentences. With a weaker class, you could elicit the meanings of the words first.
- Answers: 1 dressed 2 history 3 maths 4 English 5 dinner

Exercise 7

- Ask the students to match the words with the pictures from the DVD clip.
- Answers: 1 college 2 chapel 3 undergraduate 4 gown 5 punting

Extension

Exercises 8 and 9

- Materials needed: None
- Preparation: Put the students in groups of three or four. Tell them that they are going to talk about schools in their country to a group of students from Britain.
- Language: Encourage them to use the key phrases for giving advice.
- Activity: Ask the students to nominate two or three presenters and one note-taker in the group. Give the students 8–10 minutes to talk about all the points and make notes. Then ask them to present their ideas to the class, who are pretend visitors from Britain. Set a time limit for each presentation of 2–3 minutes.
- Extension: Ask the students to write a guide for British students coming to study at their school.

Cambridge University

The University of Cambridge is famous all over the world. It's over 800 years old and shares a lot of things with the University of Oxford – the UK's other ancient university.

Today, Cambridge has 18,000 students, 9,000 staff and 31 colleges. Many of these colleges are very old and students here do all kinds of subjects, like English, maths, history and science.

Pembroke College is over 650 years old. The building isn't as old as that, but it's still in the same location. Today, there are around 500 students here.

King's College is around 550 years old and is one of the university's most famous colleges. For many people its chapel is a symbol of the university.

Trinity College is around 475 years old. It has around 600 undergraduates, 300 graduates and 180 Fellows. A Fellow is a teacher at the university.

Students don't have to live in these colleges, but they often do. In the colleges, students' rooms are near the classrooms so students don't have to get up early! They can just get dressed, eat breakfast and go straight to their lecture. It's very convenient! They enjoy the many traditions too. In some colleges, students have to wear long, black gowns when they have dinner and they sometimes have to wear them during exams too.

Another famous Cambridge tradition is 'punting'. Behind Trinity College and King's College is the River Cam and tourists often go punting here. They push a long, flat boat – a punt – with a large stick along a part of the river called 'the Backs'. There are fantastic views of a lot of the colleges here. All of these colleges are different, but together they all make up the university.

The University of Cambridge has a fantastic reputation. It's one of the top universities in the UK and people come from all over the world to study here. Past Cambridge students include Prince Charles, the actor Ian McKellen and the scientists Francis Crick and James Watson – the discoverers of DNA.

Cambridge is a great place to study and it's a fantastic place to live.
