7 p.m.	Cats musical starts
10.20 p.m.	Return home by train

Cheryl's blog

I've got tickets to go and see the Andrew Lloyd Webber musical Cats at the Palace Theatre next Friday. I'm really looking forward to it. Just think! Cats has always been my favourite musical, and by seven o'clock on Friday evening, I <sup>1</sup> _____ (see) it! At 4 p.m. on Friday afternoon, I <sup>2</sup> _____ (hurry) to catch the train to Manchester. By 6 p.m., we <sup>3</sup> _____ (arrive) at the theatre, and we <sup>4</sup> _____ (wait) for the doors to open. I can't imagine how excited I'll be by then. By half past seven, the actors <sup>5</sup> _____ (perform) for thirty minutes, and they <sup>6</sup> _____ (sing) some of my favourite songs! By 10.30 p.m., the performance <sup>7</sup> _____ (end), and we <sup>8</sup> _____ (head) home on the train. It's going to be a fantastic evening!

Vocabulary

4 Circle the correct words to complete the sentences.

- 1 It took hours and hours to get to the beach. It was remote / hospitable / overcrowded, but worth it. We were the only ones there.
- 2 We didn't want to sit on the beach all day. We wanted to be physically active / pamper ourselves at the spa / enjoy the nightlife by going on tours and doing activities like surfing and cycling.
- 3 It's important not to take too much luggage on this trip. Nobody will be there to get away / do / help you with your bags.
- 4 Fortunately, the resort was quite dingy / unspoilt / vibrant. They had built hardly any hotels and the beaches were natural.
- 5 At night, we put / lit / did the campfire, and all sat around it and sang songs.
- 6 The tour guide invited us to his parents' house to taste / get / do a typical local dish. It was very simple, but delicious.
- 7 It was the first time I had been on a volunteering / self-catering / adventure holiday. I cooked for the children every day.
- 8 It's very small, but my beach house / villa / hotel has got an amazing view and the sound of the ocean is wonderful.
- 9 Meeting people / Soaking up the sun / Eating out at restaurants is the best thing about being on holiday. It's nice not to have to cook.
- 10 We had a lovely time on the city break / house swap / cruise. We had a five-star cabin with a view over the sea, and went for a walk on deck each day. We sailed from Marseille in the south of France to Corsica and then on to Sicily.
- 11 I stayed at a run-down / dull / breathtaking hostel. It was in poor condition, but very cheap and quite lively in the evening.
- 12 Couch-surfing / Backpacking / Ecotourism is a great idea. You advertise your place online, and people from all over the world get in touch and come to stay. They just sleep in our living room.

Use of English

6 Read the dialogue and find ten mistakes (an unnecessary word, a word missing or an incorrect word). Circle the mistakes and write the corrections.

- Kim I think I'll choose volunteering abroad for my gap year, mainly is because I want to work for a charity when I leave university. 1 _____
- Jo That's a great way to try out new experiences and see the sightings of a different country. 2 _____
- Kim Yeah, the better option would be an environmental project I've found in Chile because they provide accommodation and transport. 3 _____
- Jo And the geography is so diverse there too; you'll learn a lot. I'm going opting for backpacking around India. 4 _____
- Kim Are you going to take it easy on the beaches or get off the beating track and explore? 5 _____
- Jo I'm definitely going to soak in the sun on those beautiful beaches. But I want to broaden my horizons too and perhaps find some volunteer work when I get there. 6 _____
- Kim Personally, I wouldn't pick on-the well-known beaches as they get very overcrowded. 7 _____
- Jo You're right. I wouldn't go for the tourist hotspots for the reason that I want to get away with it all. 8 _____
- Kim It's incredible to think that this time next year I'll be trek in the Andes! 9 _____
- Jo And I might be sleeping roughly next to a campfire on a remote beach! 10 _____

The teenage polar explorer

You may not have heard of Parker Liautaud, but back in 2013 he was big news. Having announced that, at the age of nineteen, he was planning to break the record for skiing across Antarctica, the world's media were keen to get to meet the ambitious adventurer. What follows is just one of the many news stories written at the time.

Have you any idea where you'll be waking up on Christmas morning? Well, if everything goes to plan, teenager Parker Liautaud will be spending the day at the South Pole. For now, though, the nineteen-year-old Californian is in London, completing his preparations and seeking publicity for his adventure. I set out to meet him in the tent he had pitched in a glass box full of snow not far from London's famous Tower Bridge. Inside the climate-controlled box, the temperature was well below freezing, and passing Londoners were all keen to climb inside to get a selfie with Parker. I was happier to chat out in the milder air of a September afternoon in the capital. Parker turned out to be not just a well-connected adventurer from a wealthy background, but a young man determined to raise the issue of climate change to a broader audience. While crossing the Antarctic ice from the continent's coast to its pole, Parker and his co-explorer Doug Stoop will be carrying out vital scientific experiments to investigate the impact of global warming.

Despite his youthful appearance, Parker is an experienced polar explorer. He grew up with an interest in the icy wastes and, even in his early teens, had a passion for protecting these last great wildernesses. That's why he took advantage of the fact that his family was rich to finance trips to the Arctic and Antarctic. He wanted to see what was happening for himself, and to publicise the problems for the world to see. He went on his first polar expedition at the age of fourteen and attempted, unsuccessfully, to walk across the Arctic to the North Pole at fifteen. By the age of eighteen, he had reached the North Pole on three occasions. As we finished our conversation, and he made his way back to the glass box, I wished him all the best. With luck, by the end of the year, he will have achieved his latest dream.

So, in the end, what happened to Parker's exhibition to the South Pole? Well, following a 560-kilometre trek on skis from the edge of Antarctica, the young man and his co-explorer Stoop reached their goal. It was the fastest human-powered trek from the coast to the South Pole, and Parker became the youngest man to ski to the Pole.

8 Read the text. Choose the correct answers.

Writing

9 Read the task below. Write a letter of complaint.

Before flying to Wellington, the capital of New Zealand, you book a helicopter flight over the city. However, when you get there, you are told that the flight has been cancelled because of poor weather conditions, and you won't get your money back. Not only that, but you took a four-hour bus journey to get to the heliport, and the company didn't contact you to tell you about the cancellation, or put any information on their website. Write a letter of complaint to the company.
