READING

Before reading: School uniform

1 Complete the text with the words in the box.

attitude brands casual compulsory dress wear dress code respectable torn unfashionable uniform

We don't have to wear a ¹uniform at my school but there is a ²_____. The school says we have to look ³_____ and it says the clothes we ⁴_____ in class show our ⁵_____ to the school. We can wear ⁶_____ clothes like jeans, but they mustn't be ⁷_____. Although jeans are OK, we can't ⁸_____ in T-shirts or trainers. Furthermore, when we play sport, we have to wear sports clothes that aren't famous ⁹_____. I'd like to have a ¹⁰_____ school uniform, because thanks to the rules, my parents buy me ¹¹_____ clothes that I have to wear at school – and at home!

2 Read the title of the text and look at the photo. What type of uniform do you think the text talks about?

3 Read the text quickly. When did people first wear jeans?

My favourite uniform!

A lot of school students say they don't like wearing school uniforms. They want to wear their own clothes so that they can express their personalities. But if you ask the same students what they wear when they get home, they'll probably all give you the same answer: jeans!

Most teenagers like wearing jeans because they are a symbol of freedom. When you are wearing jeans, you are saying that you don't have to follow the dress codes of schools, offices and factories. However, although jeans have this image today, they were originally the uniform of the working man.

The first people to wear jeans were sailors in the Italian city of Genoa. That was in 1600! In fact, the name for these trousers comes from the French name for the city: Gênes. Over two hundred years later in California, a man called Levi Strauss sold extra strong jeans to miners and they became the working trousers for American men.

Today jeans are very fashionable but most people wear them for the same reasons as the Italian sailors: they are comfortable and practical. In fact, they are so popular that some people say they are the uniform of the 21st century. So, which uniform do you prefer? The one you wear at school, or the one you wear at home?

4 Are the sentences true or false? Correct the false sentences.

- 1 Lots of school students don't want to express their personalities.
F. They don't want to wear school uniforms.
- 2 Most school students wear the same type of clothes at home. _____
- 3 Today, jeans are a symbol of hard-working people. _____
- 4 When a person wears jeans, they are usually following a dress code. _____
- 5 Italian workers were the first people to wear jeans. _____
- 6 Levi Strauss sold jeans to French miners. _____
- 7 Most people wear jeans because they are fashionable. _____
- 8 Today, jeans are like uniform because they are popular. _____

5 Choose two answers.

The writer uses the present simple in the text to talk about ...

- 1 ... habits and routines.
- 2 ... things that are happening at this moment.
- 3 ... future plans.
- 4 ... things that are always true.

CHALLENGE!

Write a short paragraph (about 30 words) about (a) or (b).

- a The clothes that you wear to school:
Do you have to wear a school uniform? Do you have a school dress code? Do you think school uniforms are a good or bad idea?
- b The clothes that you like to wear outside school:
What clothes do you like? What do you wear when you meet your friends? Do your friends wear similar clothes? What do your parents think of your clothes?

What's a holiday representative?

A holiday representative works for a travel company and is the public face of that company when clients are on holiday. Clients will ⁶judge / expect the company by the holiday representative so they must look ⁷respectable / casual at all times. They must also be patient and ⁸thoughtless / considerate. They have to make sure that clients enjoy their holiday and resolve any problems for them. This might involve talking to the hotel ⁹chef / coach if a client has a food allergy, or being ¹⁰timid / assertive with street sellers who won't leave their clients alone.

Friendly dolphins save swimmers

One morning in November 2004, four people were 1 _____ in the sea about 100 metres from the beach near Auckland, New Zealand. They were 2 _____ lifeguards on a training swim.

Suddenly, about ten dolphins appeared and started to swim around them in circles. At first the swimmers were worried – they 3 _____ that the dolphins were 4 _____ them. One of the swimmers, Ron Howes, tried to swim back to the beach, but the dolphins stopped him and pushed him back to the other swimmers. Suddenly, one of the swimmers 5 _____. There was a three-metre shark and it was swimming towards them through the 6 _____ blue water. It came very close to the swimmers. It was only metres away, but it couldn't attack them because the dolphins were there. The dolphins stayed with the swimmers for forty minutes.

7 _____ the shark swam away and the dolphins let the swimmers return to the beach. A scientist, Rosemary Finn, who studies the behaviour of dolphins, wasn't surprised when she heard the story. 'Dolphins often help other animals and fish when they are in trouble in the sea,' she said.

- On 29 August 1930, the final 36 inhabitants went to Australia. ____
- There are only scientists on the islands today. ____
- There isn't any entertainment on the islands. ____

The Edge of the World

- St Kilda isn't an easy place to get to. It's in the Atlantic Ocean about 65 km west of the Outer Hebrides islands, which are to the north-west of Scotland. It takes 14 hours to get there from Scotland by boat. A few people visit the tiny islands of St Kilda every year, but not many.
- About two hundred years ago, the population of St Kilda was about 200. They had their own way of life. They climbed up the cliffs and caught sea birds for food. They had meetings in the village streets and made their own laws. They didn't have much contact with people from other places.
- But life was hard for the people of St Kilda, and many decided to leave the islands and travel to the USA or Australia to look for work. They wanted to earn money and have a better life. By 1930, there were only 36 inhabitants left. They decided that they wanted to leave too, and on 29 August, a boat arrived and took them to Scotland. They never returned.
- Today, there aren't any permanent inhabitants of St Kilda on the islands. However, the islands are not empty. Scientists live and work there, studying the sea birds and other wildlife. There are also a few soldiers. There isn't much entertainment, but at least there is now a sauna and a café!

Deer Alex,
 Thanks for your letter. It was good to hear from you.
 In answer to your question, my knew job is going really well. I think I've made a good impresion on the boss, and all my colleagues are really nice. However, I don't think much of my new neighbourhod. It's really run down and some of the buildings are completely abandonned. My block is ten stories high and I live on the top floor. The lift brakes down every week, which is not much fun. The inabitants of most of the flats seem to be students or imigrants. My flat is also a long way from my office, so I spend two hours every day with all the other comuters on the underground. The city itself isn't that attractive either, and it's much more industrialized than I expected.
 Hope all is well with you.
 Best wishes,
 Simon

- 2 What are the names of the five people who were in the car?

- 3 Who was the first person to escape from the car?

- 4 Why couldn't Cameron see Rosie's seatbelt?

- 5 Who rescued Cameron's father from the car?

- 6 Why did firefighters think Cameron was a passer-by?

Cameron Weir

Cameron Weir saved the lives of his family, when his parents' car went off the road and fell into two metres of water in a canal. The family were travelling home on the motorway, when their car skidded on some oil. The car crashed through the metal barrier at the side of the road, rolled down a hill and landed upside-down in a canal. Cameron, who was only twelve at the time, quickly unfastened his seatbelt and swam out through a broken window to the surface.

A few seconds later, Cameron's mum, Beryl, managed to swim free, but his seven-year-old brother, Mac, and ten-year-old sister, Rosie, were still in the car. Cameron didn't think twice about it – he went straight back under the water. Later, Cameron admitted that he was terrified, but he knew he had to do something about his brother and sister.

Cameron quickly managed to free Mac, then returned for Rosie, who couldn't swim. The cold water was cloudy and Cameron had to feel for her seatbelt. He managed to unfasten it but ran out of breath. He then had to dive down to the car for a third time to pull her out. Meanwhile, people passing by had pulled Cameron's father, Angus, to safety. He was out of the water, but he was unconscious.

On the bank of the canal, Cameron took control of the situation. In fact, Cameron was so calm that the fire fighters who arrived at the scene mistook him for a passer-by instead of a survivor. Cameron's actions were certainly heroic, but for a child they were quite exceptional.

Dancing horses

We went to Minorca last year for our summer holidays. Minorca is a Spanish island in the Mediterranean and we stayed in the second biggest city, Ciutadella. While we were there, we saw the festival of the dancing horses. It started on June 20th, but the most important day was June 23rd. On that day, there were men in black and white suits riding their black horses through the narrow streets of the town. As they rode, young people stood in front of the horses and stopped them. Then they pushed the horses so that they stood up on their back legs and started to walk. It looked as if they were dancing! Some of the horses walked like that for quite a distance. The festival lasted for about three hours and we really enjoyed it but we didn't try doing it because it looked quite dangerous. The horses were very excited and turned around a lot. We had to be very careful. After the horse festival, people had something to eat and danced with their families. The festival is a big tourist attraction and there are different festivals that take place in all of the towns of Minorca during the summer.

Christopher Columbus

Columbus was born in Italy in 1451. He was a man with a dream. Europeans were trying to find a sea route to China, India and Japan. He was a skilled sailor and he knew the world was round, so he thought the easiest way was to sail west around the Earth. In 1492, he set off from Cádiz, in Spain, with three small ships and ninety men. They sailed west for three weeks. His men were terrified that they would never return home again, but Columbus said 'Sail on!' and calmed their fears. And in October they reached land – a small island in the Bahamas. Columbus was sure they were very close to Japan. While he was sailing around the Caribbean, visiting islands, one of his ships was wrecked near the island of Hispaniola. He left forty men there to form a colony and returned to Spain with the other two ships. He was welcomed there as a hero, and in 1493 he set off again with seventeen ships and 1,200 men. When he reached Hispaniola, all forty men were dead, killed by the local people. He explored the Caribbean for three years before returning home once more. Columbus made two further voyages across the Atlantic, reaching Trinidad and setting foot on the mainland of South America. He died in 1506 in Spain, still convinced that he had reached the Far East.

A great rower

September 23rd 2000 was a special day for British rower, Steve Redgrave. He was rowing in the final of the 'coxless four' (four rowers without a cox) at the Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia. The spectators on the bank were cheering as the boat finished the race. He and his team won the race by 0.3 seconds, with the Italian team second and the Australian team third.

It was Redgrave's fifth Olympic gold medal. He also won gold medals in Los Angeles (1984), Seoul (1988), Barcelona (1992) and Atlanta (1996), and a bronze medal in Seoul. It was an incredible achievement. Only four other sportspeople have won gold medals in five different Olympic Games. Redgrave has also won nine World Championship gold medals, and he holds one world record and one Olympic record. But he doesn't just row. He also likes winter sports and in 1998 was a member of the British bobsleigh team.

The only gadget you'll ever need

Nowadays you can make voice calls, send text messages, take photos and record video clips with most mobile phones. However the latest 3G phones can do much more than that. 3G stands for 'third generation'. With 3G phones you can do many things that you normally do on a computer. For example, you can access the internet and send and receive emails. On some models you can even type letters and download them onto your PC in order to print them. You can download songs from the internet and play them on your phone, and you can also listen to the radio. It's also possible to download videos, e.g. episodes of your favourite TV programme or the highlights of a football match. The most recent phones actually allow you to watch TV so you never need to miss your favourite programmes. Mobile phone manufacturers are hoping that in the future a mobile phone is the only gadget you'll ever need!

On non-organic farms, farmers use more than 400 different ⁸_____. These can kill wild animals and birds, and also cause water pollution. If more people bought ⁹_____ food, this would help to ¹⁰_____ the environment.

- 2 Read the text. Which statement is false?

- 1 The UK recycles more than Germany and Holland. _____
- 2 The UK recycles more now than five years ago. _____
- 3 We throw away a lot of packaging from food. _____

A load of rubbish

In the UK, people are finally starting to listen to the message about recycling. British families now recycle about 22% of their waste. Only five years ago, the figure was about 10%. That's good news for the environment – but there's a lot more to do. Some other European countries, like Germany and Holland, already recycle about 60% of their waste and that's the goal for the UK too.

Households in England produce 25 million tonnes of waste a year. More than half of this is garden waste, paper, cardboard and kitchen waste – which people could recycle. They could also recycle plastic, wood, glass and aluminium cans. In fact, if everybody in the UK recycled all of their drinks cans, there would be 14 million fewer rubbish bins of waste each year.

Recycling isn't the only way to reduce the amount of rubbish we throw away. More than 40% of the waste in our bins is packaging from shopping. If we changed the way we shop, we could easily reduce the amount of waste. For example, street markets and small shops often use less packaging than supermarkets. And of course, if we grew our own fruit and vegetables, there wouldn't be any packaging at all!

- 3 Answer the questions.

- 1 How much of their waste do British families recycle now?

- 2 How much do they recycle in Germany and Holland?

- 3 How much waste do households in England produce?

- 4 What eight different things could people recycle?

- 5 How could we reduce the amount of packaging that we throw away?

CHALLENGE!

Think of ways that you personally could reduce the amount of rubbish you produce. It could be by recycling, re-using things or changing what you buy.

I could _____

Informal letters

- Start the letter with Dear and the person's first name.
- We sometimes start a letter by asking how the person is.
- Divide the letter into short paragraphs, each with its own topic.
- We can use colloquial words and phrases.
- We can end the letter with an expression like Write soon, Best wishes, or Take care, and your first name. If we know the person well, we can use Love, Lots of love or With love from.
- Use P.S. to add extra information or ask a question at the end of the letter.

Dear Clare,

How are things? It was great to see you during the holidays and thanks for showing me all the sights of York. I had a fantastic time.

I started university here in Cairo last week. There's so much information and so many new people to meet. I think the course is going to be really interesting and I'm sure I'll have a lot of fun here.

How is your new job? Are you enjoying it? It must be really nice to be earning some money. I'm going to try to get a part-time job while I'm studying here. A bit of extra cash will be really useful. There's a bookshop in the city centre that's advertising for staff so I might go there and have a chat with them.

Well, I've got to get back to the books. Write soon.

Best wishes,
Tania

P.S. Are you going to come and visit me next year?

Formal letters

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to apply for the holiday job in your restaurant, which I saw advertised in the Evening News last week.

I am seventeen years old, a student at Newton's College, and have lots of experience working in restaurants and cafés. Last summer I worked as a waiter in Mario's Café and recently I have been working at The Bay Leaf in the High Street. I am hard-working, honest and have good customer service skills.

I would be grateful if you could send me some more details about the job and I would be happy to discuss my application with you. I am enclosing my CV.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,

Tina White

- Start the letter with Dear and the person's title and family name. Use Mr for men, Mrs for married women and Miss for single women.
- If we don't know the name of the person we are writing to, we start the letter Dear Sir or Madam.
- In the first paragraph, we usually say why we are writing.
- In the next paragraph, we write the important information.
- To ask for something, we can use set phrases such as Could you please ..., or I would be grateful if you could ....
- If we want a reply, we can write I look forward to hearing from you after the final paragraph.
- Do not use colloquial language or short forms, e.g. I'm, you're.
- We finish the letter with Yours sincerely if we used the person's name at the start, or Yours faithfully if we didn't. We write our whole name.

Notes: accepting or declining an invitation

- Start the note with Dear or Hi and the person's name.
- Finish the note with Love or Best wishes and your name.
- We often use abbreviations when we write notes.
- We don't usually divide the text into paragraphs.
- We can use colloquial words and phrases.

Dear Simon,

I got your note. Great to hear from you. Thanks very much for the invitation to the barbecue in your garden. I'd love to come. I'm really looking forward to it.

Love
Paul

P.S. Do you want me to bring anything? Let me know!

WRITING BANK

A leaflet

- Include an eye-catching title and slogans.
- Use bullet points.
- Use short informative sentences.
- You can address the reader directly.
- You can include contact details, if appropriate.

Action on Homelessness

- There are over 500 homeless people in our city.
- Many of them are under 20 years old.

How would you feel if you didn't have a home and had to sleep on the streets?

LET'S DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT!

DAY OF ACTION: 4th May

We are collecting warm clothes to give to homeless people. If you have any old clothes that you don't need, please bring them to the school hall.

'The differences between boys and girls are natural and are present when a child is born.' Do you agree?

This is an issue on which people hold strong views. Some people argue that male and female brains are different and that this causes differences in behaviour. However, I believe that most of the differences are the result of the way in which we bring up children at home and at school.

At home, most parents give toy cars to their sons and dolls to the daughters. In my view, this encourages boys to be aggressive and girls to be caring and sensitive.

Furthermore, at school more boys do science and maths than girls. In my opinion, this is not because boys are naturally better at these subjects but because there are more male scientists, who act as role models.

In conclusion, I believe that boys and girls are born the same, and that the way we treat them as children makes them different from each other.

An opinion essay

- Start with a general statement.
- Give your opinion in the first paragraph.
- Put each argument or example in a separate paragraph.
- Use set phrases to express your opinions.
- Use linking words to join phrases and sentences.
- In the conclusion, summarize your argument and give your opinion again.
