Welcome to Kidsville

Kidsville is a miniature version of a city. It's for children. They have a great time in Kidsville.

There's a town hall, it is a very important and big building. It is a castle. King Alfred II lived there with his wife and five children. It is between the police station and the church. Children learn about Parliament and the government in the town hall. There's a big park where children can swim, play sports, roller skate and ride their bikes. There is also an area for picnics. You can buy salads, sandwiches and tarts at a small café next to the church. It's a wide building. You can take the food to the park or you can eat there.

In this village, there's a museum and an art gallery. The museum is opposite the town hall and the art gallery is above the museum. You don't need a ticket to access these attractions. They are free.

Open at weekends from 9 to 7 in the evening.
