E. Read the text and write K for Kirsten, M for Max or R for Ruby in the boxes next to the sentences.

Kirsten

People usually think I'm older than I really am. That's probably because most of my clothes are quite formal. I never wear T-shirts and I rarely wear jeans. I like my shoes to be comfortable but I only wear trainers when I go to the gym. I'm crazy about accessories, too. I love belts, anklets and earrings very much but I can't stand hair bands. They make me look silly.

Max

I don't really care if I'm out of fashion. I just wear what I think looks good. I hate baggy clothes and formal stuff, too. I make a lot of my own clothes and they are usually very colourful. I also enjoy buying shoes. I wear a different colour every day, usually to match the colour of my hair.

Ruby

I love casual clothes. When I have to wear formal clothes for a job interview or something, I hate it. I just want to wear jeans and a T-shirt or jumper. I love jewellery, though. I tried making my own once but they looked rubbish. Decorating clothes is easier and more fun. I take a pair of old sandals and make them really trendy. It's great fun.

- 1. He/She wears formal clothes only when he/she has to. ☐
- 2. He/She makes old footwear look like new. ☐
- 3. He/She wears the clothes he/she designs. ☐ and ☐

Geoff Robertson
with his son

When Sue found out that she was having a baby, we were both very excited. However, there was a small problem. Who would look after the baby? We agreed that I would give up my job and become a househusband. You see, Sue's a dentist and makes more money. In addition, she enjoys what she does. I used to be a part-time welder, not a very interesting job I must say. However, it wasn't easy for me to stay home and take care of our son, especially in the beginning. But now I enjoy the time I spend with him. It's a great experience. Working as a welder has helped quite a lot too. You see, the mess and all that noise doesn't annoy me. The only thing I miss is having a chat with the guys at work. When my son starts talking, at least he'll be more interesting than some of my old workmates.

1. Geoff's wife got a job after she had the baby. ☐
2. Geoff enjoyed working as a welder. ☐
3. Geoff didn't use to work full-time. ☐
4. Geoff found looking after his son easy at first. ☐

BOGOTA!

If you're travelling to Colombia, you must visit Bogota. The city lies 2,600m above sea level and is a great place to start for those who want to experience Latin America.

Getting around the city is easy. You could take a taxi or you could use the TransMilenio. These are buses that run in special lanes to avoid the traffic. You could rent a bike and ride along one of the special cycle paths where no cars are allowed. On Sundays Bogota's main roads are closed to traffic and around two million Bogotans walk and chat in the city's streets.

During your visit, be sure to go to the Museo del Oro. This museum is filled with 50,000 objects, all made of gold. Some of these objects are over 2,500 years old.

Another sight you shouldn't miss seeing is the Cathedral of Salt.

Just outside the city is an old salt mine which has been turned into a cathedral. It is 180m under the ground and the main part is 80m long and 18m tall.

Bogota also offers wonderful traditional restaurants and friendly local people. So, what are you waiting for?

Book a trip to Bogota today!

1. What's the city's bus system called? _____
2. What do people do on Sundays? _____
3. What can you see in the Museo del Oro? _____

Dear Paula,

The big event is in two weeks and I'll be the first to cross the finish line! I haven't entered this race just to take part, I'm going to win. I have been training like a professional. It's tough but all I'm thinking of is the gold medal.

I wake up at six every morning, pick up my spoon and have cereal for breakfast. I boil two eggs but only eat one of them. For the rest of the day I walk around with the egg on the spoon. Everyone thinks I'm crazy but when it comes to the race this extra practice will make me the champion. Egg and spoon has been my life for the past two months. I have found the perfect spoon and together we are the perfect team. Nothing can go wrong. I haven't dropped an egg for the past three weeks. Not bad, huh?

I'm really looking forward to the big day. I hope you come and watch me become a champion.

Lots of love,
Eddie

ARE FOUR
THAN TWO?

The traditional image of a Chinese city is millions of cyclists on their way to work, fighting for space on crowded roads. There are 540 million bicycles in China and for many years the bicycle has been the most popular way of getting around. However, all this is changing as more and more people are choosing cars instead of bikes for personal transport. There are 11 million bikes in Beijing and less than ten years ago bicycles were used for 60 per cent of trips within the city. Today the number has gone down to 40 per cent and people are beginning to worry what this is going to do to the population's health. The high number of cyclists used to mean that Beijing's population stayed fit and healthy. More people using cars means people get less exercise and there is more pollution. Beijing's engineers and town planners are working on a solution to keep the streets safe for people who want to continue to travel on two wheels. Beijing wants to look after its more active people.

G. Match.

In search of Atlantis
by Calvin Rogers

I first heard the story when I was about eight years old. I was fascinated by the idea of an ancient city that just disappeared one day. For the past thirty years, I've been collecting all the information I can find about the lost city of Atlantis.

I'm a scuba diver and I travel around the world teaching people to dive. I also lead diving holidays to some of the places where people think Atlantis may have stood. A few years ago I travelled to the island of Santorini in Greece. It's one of the most popular Atlantis sites but I'm afraid I didn't find any evidence. Last September I led an expedition to an area that no one had explored before. It's top secret and only my team and I know where we went. It was a very successful trip and I really think I'm on to something. Some day I'll show people around the underwater streets of the ancient city. I'm sure of it.

India's police pigeon service started in 1946. For more than fifty years, police stations in Orissa, an area in eastern India, used pigeons (1)_____ (deliver) important messages to each other. Every day until 1988, they tied messages to pigeons' legs and sent them off across the Indian countryside. However, as technology improved, more and more police stations decided (2)_____ (start) using radio and telephone communication instead. It looked like the pigeons would soon (3)_____ (be) out of a job.

In 1999, after a terrible storm, the radio and telephone networks in the area were destroyed and nobody could (4)_____ (communicate) with each other. The police needed (5)_____ (send) messages (6)_____ (ask) for help, so they let the pigeons (7)_____ (do) the job. Thousands of lives were saved as a result of the messages delivered by pigeons.

Unfortunately, three years later, the Orissa police pigeon service was closed. Costing $10,000 a year, they said that it was too expensive (8)_____ (continue) running the service.

F. Read the text and look at the e-mails 1-4. Who sent them? Write G for Glen or T for Ted.

Last year my brother, Ted, moved to Australia. We have always been close and I was sure that I would really miss him. We promised each other to keep in touch but I was afraid we wouldn't. You know when you start a new life on the other side of the world, you sometimes forget about the people back home. Luckily, I was wrong. We speak on the phone at least twice every month but I find out most of his news by e-mail. The time difference means that we're never at work at the same time but I e-mail him during my lunchbreak and then read his reply the next day. He was having trouble choosing a flat so he sent me pictures of two of his favourite and I helped him to make up his mind. My wife had a baby six months after he left and the first thing we did when we got back from the hospital was send him photos of his nephew, Josh. Ted is coming to visit for Josh's first birthday. Ted lives ten thousand miles away but I feel closer to him than ever.

WORLD WATER DAY

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation (UNESCO) organises World Water Day to inform people about world water issues. A UNESCO report found that approximately 40% of the world's population does not have enough water. World Water Day was held for the first time on 22nd March 1993. Every year since then, across the planet people celebrate World Water Day on this day. Each year World Water Day has got a different theme. In the past, these have included Water for Health, Water for the Twenty-first Century, Water for Life and The World's Water: Is There Enough? In 2006, the theme for the World Water Day was Water and Culture and it looked into the role water plays in our everyday lives. Water is used in religious ceremonies and has been represented for centuries in art. World Water Day 2006 showed how music, painting, writing and cinema have all brought water to the centre of our cultural lives.

Bergen, a city on Norway's western coast, is the wettest city in Europe. Rain falls on 250 days of the year and around 2 metres of rain fall every year. This is four times more rain than London and six times more than Athens. However, all this rain doesn't stop Bergen's citizens from having fun. Quite the opposite. Every year, Bergen holds a rain festival during October which is the wettest month in the whole year. There are raincoat and umbrella parades and, if the sun decides to shine, the fire brigade is there to spray the crowds. Umbrellas can be bought 24 hours a day from vending machines on the streets. Heavy rain and strong winds mean that umbrellas have a hard life and broken ones are a common sight in Bergen's litter bins.

Water has always played an important role in Bergen's history and this is still the case today. Fishing is important and brings a lot of money to the city. A popular pastime with tourists is sailing around the fjords. They're just beautiful.

	True	False	Not Mentioned

Walking all day long. Just before it got dark, I put up my tent. It was the first time I'd done it by myself but it only took me ten minutes and now I'm sitting by the fire waiting for my soup to warm up. The sun was shining all day today and I'm a bit sunburnt.

Day 2

This evening I slipped and sprained my wrist. The pain was incredible so I took a painkiller. I bandaged my wrist and started to put up my tent. It took me over an hour because my hand hurt and it was so dark I had to use my torch.

Day 3

As I was changing my bandage, I managed to cut myself with the scissors from my first-aid kit. There was blood everywhere! I held the bandage tightly on the cut and eventually the bleeding stopped. I'll have to go home tomorrow.

Day 4

Packed up the tent very early and walked all day. When I finally got home, I cleaned my cut and put on some antiseptic cream. My friends are making fun of me but I'm looking forward to my next adventure.

My neighbour saved my life

Simon Clough
with his hero
Adam Hunt

It started as a day like any other. As usual I arrived at work at half past eight and started to load up the van. At about half past twelve, I had made my last delivery of the morning and I was quite close to my house so I decided to go home for lunch. As I turned into my street, I heard an alarm and I could see smoke coming out of a house. I stopped and as soon as I got out of the van, I realised that it was my neighbour's house. I managed to kick the door down and get in. There was a lot of smoke and I couldn't see much but I could hear someone coughing. I found Mr Clough on the living room floor. He was having trouble breathing. I took him outside and then went back in and put out the fire. It was only a chip pan fire but the amount of smoke was incredible! I know it was dangerous, especially going back in to put out the fire, but I know what to do so I did it. I remembered seeing an old fire safety programme where they put a pan fire out with a wet towel so that's what I did. I couldn't wait for the fire brigade. Mr Clough needed my help. I've been in the local paper but I don't think I'm a hero. Anyone else would have done the same, wouldn't they?

Millau Viaduct: the tallest bridge in the world!

The Millau Viaduct is a road bridge that crosses the valley of the River Tarn in Southern France. At its tallest point it is 343 metres tall which makes it taller than the Eiffel Tower. Interestingly, the Millau Viaduct was built more than one hundred years later than the Eiffel Tower, however they were both built by the same company, the Eiffage Group.

Construction began in October 2001 and the bridge was officially opened by the French President, Jacques Chirac, on 14th December 2004. The bridge is just under two and a half kilometres long and weighs 290,000 metric tons. Every day between 10,000 and 25,000 cars cross the bridge.

The engineers were worried that people driving across the bridge might feel uncomfortable at such a height, so they designed the bridge in such a way that when driving, it's difficult to look down.

- The _____ of the Millau Viaduct is 336 metres.
- _____ was the company which built both the Millau Viaduct and the _____.
- _____ opened the bridge on 14th December 2004.

surprise party parade festival food fight beauty contest

We organise one every year in our town. Only girls between 16 and 21 can enter and it's always a good show. The winner is also the queen of the summer parade.

I'd just moved into a new flat and I was having a party. I don't know how it started but I was really lucky I hadn't moved my furniture yet. I don't know why nobody ate the cakes, they were delicious. Perhaps, they preferred to make a mess.

The preparations were really difficult. We had bought food and drinks, got a cake and decorated the house, all without Marion knowing. At one point I thought she had realised what we were doing but she hadn't. The expression on her face was brilliant!

Tony Hawk

Tony Hawk is the most famous skateboarder of all time. He was born in San Diego, California on 12th May 1968. When he was nine years old, his brother bought him a present that changed his life. The present was a skateboard and Tony began practising every day.

Soon he was winning competition after competition and turned professional at the age of fourteen. It was the start of an amazing career, during which Tony would invent loads of tricks. In 1985 he was the first person to complete a 720°. This is a jump with two complete spins in mid-air. Many people thought this was the ultimate skateboard trick but in 1999 Tony achieved something that had always seemed impossible, the 900°.

Today Tony has stopped taking part in skateboarding competitions. He performs in an extreme sports show and works to provide public skateparks in poor areas of the US with his charity, the Tony Hawk Foundation.
