Jimmy Lee and his friends

The Lake Monster of Lion Mountain Park

By Jimmy Lee

Last Saturday, my friends and I went to the lake. After lunch, everyone did different things. Larry fished. Davy looked for shells. Charlie built a sand castle. Kenny and Keri played badminton. Sandy listened to the radio. May and Tracy swam in the lake. I took pictures of everyone except May and Tracy. They were too far from me.

When May and Tracy swam closer to me, they said, "Take our picture, please!"

I told them to say, "Cheese." When I took their picture, the Lake Monster came out of the water. I pointed to the Lake Monster and shouted, "The Lake Monster is behind you!" But when Tracy and May turned around, the Lake Monster wasn't there.

"It went under water," I told them. But they did not believe me.

"Very funny," they said.

The Lake Monster of Lion Mountain Park

I told my other friends about the Lake Monster. They didn't believe me, either.

"OK," I said. "I'll show you!"

I ran to the camera shop. I gave my film to the man in the shop. He developed the film in an hour. After I paid him, I hurried back to the park. All my friends were there.

When they saw me, they shouted, "Did you see another Lake Monster?" Everyone laughed except me.

"No," I said. "But I have a picture of it."

I showed them the photograph of the Lake Monster. Everyone shouted, "You really saw it!"
